

Kidnap Ransom Bills Turn Up In Two States

PETOSKEY, Mich. (AP)—Three bills included in the vain $600,000 ransom paid in the Bobby Greenlease kidnap-killing have been uncovered. Two of them were found in Michigan, a third in Indiana. Two were $20 and one $10.

Of the ransom paid, $38,000 has not been found. Finding of the bills raised immediate speculation by authorities that hoodlums may be peddling the money to professional "fences" at 30 to 50 cents on the dollar.

No More Details

Two bills, one a $20 and the other a $10, were reported found here and in Detroit Monday. Maj. Walter Weyland, executive officer of the Indiana state police, announced Monday night that a $20 bill had been found at Petersburg, Ind.

William Harvey, Petersburg police chief, said the FBI has asked him "not to speak about it," and Weyland said he couldn't give any details. The FBI also declined comment on the Michigan finds.

Robert C. Greenlease, a millionaire Kansas City, Mo., automobile dealer paid $600,000 ransom in $10 and $20 bills Oct. 4. But the 6-year-old boy already had been killed.

Trial Starts Monday

He was kidnaped Sept. 28, and his body found Oct. 6.

Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady were arrested in St. Louis that day. They have pleaded guilty to kidnaping and killing the boy and are awaiting trial in Kansas City Monday.

A total of $292,000 in ransom money was recovered, but Hall and Mrs. Heady were unable to account for $308,000.

Vote Riots Kill 8 In Philippines

MANILLA (AP)—The Philippines elected a president today in balloting scarred by local but deadly violence that left at least eight dead.

Decisive results are not expected for about three days.

First meager reports gave challenger Ramon Magsaysay a 5 to 1 lead over President Elpidio Quirino in Manila and some outlying provinces. The reports came from areas known to be Magsaysay strongholds.

Although the Commission on Elections said voting generally was peaceful, Philippines News Service listed eight victims of gunfire and stabbing.

Five men and a youth were slain in volatile Cavite Province, four of them in one gun battle. One person was reported killed at Rosario in La Union Province and another was reported stabbed to death in a polling booth at San Carlos, Pangasinan Province.

It was buried the same day.

KIDNAPED BABY SAFE — Five-month-old Richard Lee Stammer, left, abducted from his Evansville, Ind., home, was found alive and safe with his abductor at a farm home near Bokchite, Okla. The abductor, Mrs. Tommie Doughty, said she fell in love with the child and wanted to keep him. The child's parents, Richard, a sailor, and Shirley Stammer, 18, are shown at the right. Young Indiana Couple Overjoyed At Getting Their Baby Boy Back TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Happy at recovering their baby but bitter at his kidnaper, a young sailor and his wife started back by air today to their Indiana home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duane Stammer left here by scheduled airliner, 5-month-old Richard Lee safe in his mother's arms, for Evansville where they were to arrive this afternoon.

The couple was to stop in St. Louis more than two hours to change planes before continuing on the final leg of their journey. They uttered words of bitterness at Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty, a 17-year-old former carnival strip-teaser with a mother complex who admitted taking the child while baby-sitting for the Stammers Friday night.

"It doesn't matter to me what they do to that girl," said the 18-year-old mother. "I have no sympathy for her. She had none for me."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Doughty, who said she wanted the child to replace one lost at birth, began to show the first signs of remorse from her jail cell at Muskogee. The twice-wed girl, held under $20,000 bond on kidnapping charges insisted:

"I got to thinking about how his mother felt, it made me feel awful."

But Stammer, 20, and his wife, who had given the baby up for lost, were unforgiving, remembering the teen-ager's vow to get Richard Lee again when he is grown.

They flew to Oklahoma Monday when the FBI announced it had arrested Mrs. Doughty at her parents home near Bokchite shortly after she completed the flight by bus and hitchhiking.

Sun Makes New Polio Vaccine

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—A new polio vaccine, made with aid of sun-tan rays, shows promise in its first human tests, Chicago scientists reported today.

This vaccine uses polio virus inactivated or "killed" by exposure to ultraviolet light or sun-tan rays for two seconds.

It thus differs from the famous vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh. The Salk vaccine, scheduled for mass human tests soon, inactivates the viruses with formaldehyde.

The sun-tan vaccine produced antibodies against all three types of polio virus in most of 30 human volunteers, Doctors Albert Milzer, Sidney O. Levinson and H. J. Shaughnessy of Michael Reese Research Foundation and Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago, told the American Public Health Assn. at its annual meeting.

The 30 included a few persons who before vaccination had no detectable antibodies against one or more of the types of virus. Usually, the vaccine brought a four-fold increase in antibodies any of the volunteers had from previous unknown exposure to polio.

The key to a safe vaccine is to render the polio virus powerless to cause sickness but still keep some of its power to make a human produce antibodies against the virus.

The Chicago team said they believed sun-tan irradiation of the viruses offers a promising method of doing this.

They expressed belief their vaccine still has only a minimal ability to stimulate antibodies. Efforts should be made to step it up either by better methods of growing virus or by concentration of virus.

Their next tests will be upon children and infants who are found not to have any antibodies against any type of virus.

Critical safety tests were made on monkeys to make certain that the virus had been rendered harmless for infection.

Mustafa Kemal's Body Buried After 15 Years

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—The body of Mustafa Kemal Ataturk, who led feudal Turkey into Western ways, was given final burial today, 15 years after his death. Thousands lined a four-mile route as a military gun carriage bore his bier from the small temporary mausoleum near the heart of the capital to a great memorial of native yellow stone on the outskirts.

Lansing Man Named Agriculture Chief; Faces Salary Slash

LANSING (AP)—Promoted to be state agriculture commissioner, George S. McIntyre of Lansing today was facing a pay cut.

Deputy director since 1947, McIntyre was unanimously voted upstairs by the Agriculture Commission Monday. The appointment is effective Dec. 1.

The non-civil service directorship pays $10,000 a year. As deputy director under civil service, McIntyre was making $10,200 a year. The commission, however, has asked the Legislature to boost the director's pay to $12,000.

Raised On Farm

McIntyre has served as acting director since the commission fired Charles Figy of Morenci in August. McIntyre was picked by secret ballot from a field of 10 candidates, all of whom were interviewed by the commission at the meeting.

McIntyre, 44, is married and the father of two sons and a daughter. He was born and raised on a farm near Dowagiac and graduated from Dowagiac High School. He holds a bachelor's degree in agriculture from Michigan State College.

The new director was appointed agriculture agent in Cass County soon after graduation, and he served there nine years. He was advanced to a dairy extension specialist in the Upper Peninsula and served in that position until he was

Big 3 Leaders To Confer In Bermuda Next Month

California Vote Holds Political Spotlight Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The final congressional election of the year drew nationwide attention today to the 24th California District, where a Democratic victory would reduce the Republican House majority to two representatives.

The registrar of voters has forecast a 40 per cent turnout, or about 66,000 votes, in the special election.

Democrats Steamed Up

In their campaign, Republican forces emphasized that success for them would constitute a vote of confidence in the Eisenhower administration.

The Democrats, steamed up by recent triumphs in Wisconsin and New Jersey, have indicated that they would regard a victory as a definite straw in the political wind.

The House lineup at present is 218 Republicans, 215 Democrats, 1 independent and 1 vacancy—the seat which will be filled today.

Two Democrats and two Republicans are in the local race, and the one who polls the most votes will win. There will be no runoff. The seat at stake is the one relinquished by Norris Poulson, Republican, when he was elected mayor of Los Angeles.

Both Sides Split

Republicans have given their official endorsement to Glenard P. Lipscomb and the Democratic party organization is backing George Arnold. But also in the race are John L. E. Collier, Republican, and Irving Markheim, Democrat.

Lipscomb and Collier are state assemblymen. Arnold is a lawyer, son of Thurmond Arnold, assistant attorney general under Franklin D. Roosevelt. Arnold's wife is the daughter of columnist Drew Pearson. Markheim is a veterans' service officer who ran for Congress unsuccessfully against Poulson in 1952.

Byrnes Says Truman Knew All About Spy In Government Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—James F. Byrnes, secretary of state in the Truman administration, quotes former President Truman as saying he read with surprise an FBI report linking Harry Dexter White to Communism.

Byrnes, now governor of South Carolina, said he suggested that Truman withdraw White's nomination to a higher government post—a nomination Atty. Gen. Brownell contends was made early in 1946 despite an FBI report that White was engaged in Soviet Espionage.

Shocked By Report

Two other former members of Truman's official family said Monday night they did not recall such a report, but Byrnes said he read it, went to the White House and told Truman he was "shocked," and asked what the President intended to do about it.

"The President stated he had read the report and that he also was surprised," Byrnes said.

Byrnes and Truman have become bitter political foes in recent years. The South Carolina governor supported President Eisenhower in the 1952 campaign.

Fear Big Menace To Free Speech, Truman Declares

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says a fear of communism is being manipulated by a few so as to cause nationwide hysteria, thereby placing freedom of speech and thought under attack.

In an extemporaneous speech before the American Jewish Congress Monday night, Truman said he feared the fight for freedom of speech an dthought "is losing ground."

He added: "Fear of communism is being manipulated by a few so as to cause a wave of hysteria in this country."

"Fear is a great silencer and people are being kept quiet for fear of being accused of sympathy with communism."

"When people become afraid to speak their beliefs or to defend the innocent or to explore new ideas, then freedom is really in danger."

He said he did not mean "we are about to lose these freedoms," but added, "I will say that they are under attack."

Truman was awarded the AJC's 1952 Stephen Wise Award for his "consistent and courageous leadership in the cause of civil rights."

Tough Anti-West Soviet Stand To Be Main Topic

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain and Premier Laniel of France, will discuss the world situation at Bermuda, probably in the period between Dec. 4-8.

A White House announcement today said the Big Three leaders will be joined in the talks by Secretary of State Dulles for the United States, Foreign Minister Bidault for France, and Foreign Minister Eden for Great Britain.

Put Off From July

The statement said: "It has been decided to hold the three power conference at Bermuda which was planned for the beginning of July but had to be put off."

"It is hoped to meet from Dec. 4 to Dec. 8 and various matters of common concern to the three powers will be discussed."

The apparent toughening of Russia's anti-Western policies presumably would rank high among the topics.

Informed officials said the Bermuda sessions will be held primarily to decide what course the West should take in view of Russia's latest note rejecting the Allies' bid to a Big Four foreign ministers conference in Switzerland.

Russians Balk

At his news conference last week, Eisenhower said the Soviet Union, in its reply, seemed to be trying to prevent a Big Four conference "by injecting impossible conditions."

The President added at that time that the Soviet reply "manifests no intention to get together, but an intention to create as many difficulties as possible."

Since last May Churchill has been urging that the leaders of the Western powers meet with Premier Malenkov of Russia.

Last week, however, he said such a conference might do more harm than good.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that any conference with Malenkov would have to be preceded by evidence of Soviet good faith.

The Big Three had planned to meet in Bermuda last July. The conference first was delayed because of a French government crisis, then postponed because of the illness of Churchill.

Israel Killings Denounced In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Big Three have denounced Israel before the U. N. for the recent killing of 53 Arabs in the Jordan border village of Kibya. But they have agreed to hold off a call for Security Council action until both sides have their say.

Israel's Chief Delegate Abba Eban told the council he will plead his government's case when the hearing is resumed Thursday.

Britain, France and the United States Monday night joined in strongly censuring the Oct. 14 Kibya raid by Armed Israeli as a flagrant violation of the already strained Palestine armistice.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told the council evidence left "no doubt" that armed Israeli forces had made the Kibya attack.

Israel has maintained that the raid was made by local village defense forces—not the Israeli army—in reprisal for an earlier Jordan raid on the Israeli hamlet of Yahude in which a woman and two children were slain.

Outburst Staged By Mossadegh In Treason Trial

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Screaming, sobbing ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh attempted to walk out of a court martial trying him for his life today after a wild fist-swinging scene climaxed his attempts to disavow his court-appointed lawyer.

The 73-year-old politician—accused of defying the Shah, trying to overthrow the monarchy and illegally dissolving the Majlis—lower house of Parliament—shouted at his judges:

"Give an order to cut off my head, but I must defend myself."

It was the third straight day of emotional fireworks staged by Mossadegh, virtual dictator of Iran before his overthrow last August by royalist supporters. He told the tribunal Monday he would commit suicide if released and would not appeal if convicted.

He also threatened to boycott future court sessions, asserting that the court was not competent to try him.

Today's outburst came suddenly after an all-out effort by the aged Nationalist leader to get rid of Col. Jalil Bozorgmehr, his court-appointed lawyer.

Bawling "Go away, damn you," Mossadegh rose from the bench and swung at Bozorgmehr, hitting him on the arm. Brushing the lawyer aside, Mossadegh staggered past three dumbfounded court officials and stumbled 20 feet down the aisle before officers caught up with him.

Reds Take Beating, Try To Get Out Of POW Explanations

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian command today all but abandoned hope for getting the stalled prisoner of war explanation program under way again and told the Communists that any solution is up to them.

"I can see no use in carrying on with these demoralizing interruptions," said Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Thimayya met with the Communist high command at Kaessong Monday night.

Refuse To Return

There have been growing indications that the Communists want to escape from the explanation program which has cost them a humiliating propaganda defeat. So far 97 per cent of the Chinese and North Koreans interviewed have refused to return to their Communist homelands.

There have been no explanations since Thursday.

Thimayya reiterated Tuesday that if the present system collapses he will use Indian troops to screen prisoners who have not been interviewed.

4-H Officers Attend School

"Your job is important," Ben Westrate of Marquette, assistant state 4-H leader, told an estimated 72 Delta County 4-H Club members Monday night in the Court-house.

Westrate spoke at the end of the annual 4-H officer training school in which club officers get instruction and advice on how to carry out their duties effectively. Earlier, classes covering each club officer had been held. Fred Bernhardt, Delta County 4-H agent, was in charge of the gathering.

The assistant state 4-H leader suggested the officers think about how they came to be officers.

He urged the 4-H'ers, each officer has his job, and if he doesn't do it, his club won't be much of a club.

Go home with the sense of your job being important, Westrate advised the officers.

The individual meetings included instruction to presidents and vice presidents by Westrate; to secretaries by Dorothy Eler of Marquette, assistant state 4-H leader; and to treasurers by Bernhardt. Grace Budinger, a Cornell 4-H member, worked with recreation leaders; Ralph Wiltse, Escanaba Daily Press reporter, with news reporters; and Ingrid Teronen, Delta home demonstration agent, with junior leaders.

Chocolate milk and chocolate-chip cookies were served at the evening's close.

Marquette Man Drowned Sunday While Hunting

MARQUETTE—Dragging operations were resumed in the Dead River Monday for the body of Alfred H. (Red) Collins, Marquette, who was drowned late Sunday afternoon while hunting ducks.

Collins, wearing hip boots and heavy hunting clothes, was unable to swim to shore when the rowboat in which he was riding overturned about 200 yards from shore, in Marquette Township, near the Forestville Bridge.

Dragging operations were commenced Sunday, but were halted after a short time due to darkness. State Police, sheriff's department, Conservation Department and Coast Guard officers were taking part in the search for the body.

Meanwhile, the Conservation Department said today it was starting a search for Arnold Maki, Munising, who went duck hunting at 2 Sunday afternoon and had not returned up to this morning. He was believed out alone, and was driving a 1952 sky blue sedan, license number RT 1464.

Collins had gone hunting early Sunday morning with John Vasseau, Neidhart Avenue. They hunted most of the day near Sands, but not having had any luck, they decided to try the Dead River Basin.

Vasseau told state police they saw some ducks across the river, and that he said he would drive around to the other side, to scare the ducks across, while Collins was to wait there.

However, when Vasseau returned, he noticed that Collins had gone out in the river in the rowboat, and heard his companion yelling for help, about 200 yards out.

That was about 5:30 p. m. A few moments later, Vasseau said Collins went down.

Sanitation Is Austria's Need, Says Dr. Seidling

The new Republic of Austria is on the road to reconstruction following the devastation of World War II, but there is much work to be done, particularly in the field of public health, says Dr. Josef Seidling, Vienna, who is in the United States to study the development of public water supplies.

Dr. Seidling is spending three days in Delta County with Wallace Benzie, sanitarian, and Dr. William C. Harrison, director of the Delta-Menominee Health District.

"The spirit of our people is good," said Dr. Seidling, who heads the Austrian government's program for sewage disposal and the guarding of water supplies from external pollution.

Here Three Months
"In Vienna 80 per cent of the war damaged homes have been reconstructed, and the reconstruction program in general is 40 per cent completed."

A graduate doctor of technology, who majored in civil engineering and hydraulics at the University of Technology, Vienna, Dr. Seidling has been in the United States for nine weeks of a three-month stay to study water supplies, water treatment and distribution, operational management; the protection of water supplies and problems of sanitary engineering.

In this country he has already visited in Washington, D. C., Cleveland, Lansing, Chicago and Milwaukee before coming to Escanaba.

Here Benzie, health department sanitarian, has shown him the waste disposal and water supply system at rural schools, and he will view Escanaba's new water treatment plant and the new water system at Pinecrest sanatorium, Powers, and the branch State Health Department laboratory there.

Need More Engineers
"I am most impressed in your country by your public health program," said Dr. Seidling. "I have been in many countries, but the United States is doing the most to protect the health of its people. You have an aim—an objective."

When he returns to Austria, a country with a population of 7 million that until one year ago was divided into several sectors following the war, he hopes to encourage the training of sanitary engineers in the universities, and to promote the study of controlling industrial wastes and the development of environmental sanitation.

Many of the rivers and much of the surface water in Austria is polluted by human and industrial wastes, he noted. To correct this condition the government, the state and the community is sharing in the work of reconstructing water supply facilities.

Dr. Seidling will stay here through Wednesday and then leave for Washington, D. C., and then go to North Carolina where he will be taken on study tours by the health department of that state.

Activity Increases In Chest Campaign; Quick Response Asked

Considerable activity was reported on all "fronts" this morning in the annual drive being made by the army of Delta County Community Chest solicitors but as yet no actual compilation has been made of returns to date. The county goal is $20,000, of which $12,500 must be raised in Escanaba, $4,500 in Gladstone and $3,000 in the 14 townships.

First industry in Escanaba to report its donation was the Insulation Manufacturers Corporation, 423 N. 23rd St., which qualified as a "100" per cent institution. All employees contributed to the county's six-in-one drive. The Chest campaign finances the work of six health and welfare agencies.

Because no house-to-house canvass will be held in Escanaba this year, residents more than ever are making use of facilities being provided at the three city banks, Mrs. C. L. Riegel, chairman of the women's committee in charge of the bank Community Chest booths.

"The response has been very good and contributions generally bigger than two years ago, when booths were first used in the city banks," she said.

"Many persons desire to contribute and are disappointed when no one calls on them in the residential districts. However, most persons transact business downtown at some time or other. When they drop in one of the city banks, they may make a contribution at the conspicuously marked Chest booth."

Another opportunity to contribute is provided by the blank published at the bottom of this article in the Escanaba Daily Press today. (See below). This may be used by any resident of the county and is particularly convenient for persons who do not ordinarily visit the business district. This blank may be filled in, clipped out and mailed to Chest headquarters at 1111 Ludington St.

Unofficial reports at Chest headquarters indicate that more than $3,000 has been collected in Gladstone, approximately $2,000 in Escanaba and as yet no returns have

Norbert Beauchamp Hurt In Accident Enroute To Alaska

A/c Norbert Beauchamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Beauchamp of St. Nicholas, was injured in an automobile accident enroute to the Air Force Base at Anchorage, Alaska after spending a 20 day furlough with his parents.

Airman Beauchamp was driving the car of a friend, from Cleveland, Ohio, who also was enroute to Alaska, asleep in the back seat. When they approached Omaha, Neb., a semi-truck backed into the car. An object, presumably a jack, was protruding from the truck and went through the windshield of the car striking Beauchamp in the face.

He received two fractures of the jaw and lacerations and cuts of the face. The other serviceman was uninjured. The car was extensively damaged. A/c Beauchamp is presently at the Bellevue Air Force Hospital at Omaha.

Recreation Board Favors Park Site Near Athletic Field

The Recreation Board last night unanimously recommended that the property owned by the city directly across from the high school athletic field be retained as a park and recreational area, as previously designated on the master plan of the city. The board met at the city hall yesterday at 7 p. b.

The board's resolution declared that this property is necessary for future recreational needs and is desirable for a water front park area for the neighboring people.

Frank Bourke was appointed to serve as secretary for the following year.

Public Works Season Ending

Public works projects are drawing to a seasonal close in Escanaba with the arrival of cold weather, with most of the jobs expected to be completed or halted for the season by the end of next week.

Construction of a sanitary sewer in the alley between 20th and 21st Street between 10th and 11th Avenue N. was started Monday and is expected to be finished by the end of this week, said City Engineer Loren Jenkins.

Work will halt next week in the laying of a 24-inch sewer to the site where Catholic Central High School is under construction south of Lakeview cemetery.

At Ludington Park work is continuing in two locations. The area east of the new water plant is being covered with top soil in preparation for lawn seeding, and top soil is being placed to cover and fill in the area where the old bathhouse was removed.

In the improvement at Ludington Park the Third Street entrance to the park is being closed, as recommended by the Planning Commission and approved by the City Council.

Potato Industry Becoming Highly Competitive Field

Today's potato growers are now in a highly competitive business and only the experienced and established grower with the equipment and "know how" can expect to come out with a profit, J. L. Heirman, Delta agricultural agent, yesterday told potato growers who were guests of the Escanaba Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting at the Delta Hotel.

The number of potato growers in this area is declining slightly but "we are not a bit concerned about that," Heirman said.

"Under today's conditions you're either in the potato business or out of it. The grower must have certain equipment and skills if he is to succeed. The time is past for dabbling in the potato business," he declared.

Quality Is High

Michigan State College farm economics specialists this year are recommending that growers market their potatoes over a two or three month period beginning in December, the agent reported.

"Total potato production in the Lakes States this year will be 29 million bushels, which will mean a small surplus," he said.

The quality of the russet rurals, sebaço and russet sebaço potatoes grown in Delta County this year is "exceptionally good," Heirman said. Delta samples placed first in quality at the recent U. P. Potato Show at Ironwood, and Delta growers took most of the high placings in both certified and tablestock competition.

Raise Certified Seed

The selected 4-H Club growers plant a few acres of good certified seed, for planting next spring. The results this year have been good and an ample supply of certified seed will be available next year.

"The young people are learning how to raise good potatoes in this program, and we can look forward to a better crop from the adult growers next year—if the fathers cooperate," Bernhardt said.

Noting the growing competition in the potato industry, Bernhardt said that potato prices are down, production is up among the smaller number of growers in the business, machinery costs are high, people are eating less potatoes, "and problems generally are increasing."

Former Escanaban Tells Impressions Of Moscow

Miss Kathleen Kasischke, 18, a former Escanaba High School student, recently moved from Bonn, Germany to establish residence with her father at Moscow. She wrote her grandmother, Mrs. James Christie of 216 1st Ave. S., an interesting letter Oct. 30 of her arrival and impression of Moscow. She is the daughter of Richard Kasischke, Associated Press bureau chief of Moscow, and Mrs. Gerald Olson, who is enroute to Japan.

Excerpts from the letter are as follows:

"I had quite a good trip here from Berlin. It was a Russian plane and contained some rather odd looking characters. Also the seats had no safety belts. It took about three hours to get to Minsk, where we stopped for an hour while the police went through the foreigner's luggage and then went on for two more hours to get to Moscow.

"The apartment here is quite lovely. The furniture is all fairly new and there are wall to wall carpets in all the rooms. We have five rooms plus kitchen and bath. The apartment is on the fifth floor, overlooking the Moscow River.

Attended Bolshoi Theatre
"It has been very cold all the time I've been here. Yesterday was the only full sunny day yet.

"I have been to the Bolshoi Theatre twice. It is beautiful. All done in gold gilt and red velvet. I went once to see the ballet in which the great Ulanova danced. She is supposed to be one of the greatest in the world. And the other time I went to see the Bulgarian Opera perform.

"Daddy and I were invited to lunch last week by the Bohlen's, the American ambassador.

"We have a car, a new Chevrolet, and a chauffeur named Kolya. We also have a cook, who is very good. I can't talk to either of them

Lifting Secrecy In Government Will Help To Serve Democracy

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's order lifting the curtain of secrecy surrounding the activities of a number of governmental agencies is a move for better government under democracy.

President Eisenhower repealed the set of regulations imposed by President Truman two years ago, rules which authorized many governmental agencies to bar the flow of news simply by classifying information as "restricted."

Some information will, of course, continue to be classified in the restricted category for security reasons but this will apply only to specific agencies dealing with national defense and then only to the phase of their activities that should be restricted for the nation's security.

The new regulations ordered by President Eisenhower does not necessarily mean that government bureaucrats who have long preferred to operate in the greatest secrecy will suddenly invite public inspection of their activities. It does mean, however, that vigilant newsmen can now force disclosure of information that previously was hid under the cloak of the censorship regulations.

Under the terms of the new order 28 Federal agencies are denied authority to withhold any information on security grounds. For 17 other agencies this authority is limited to the chief administrative officers only. In addition the order makes provisions for receiving complaints from newsmen and others outside the government and sets up machinery for constant review of the whole program.

It is apparent that government cannot and should not divulge information that would endanger our country's national defense. But it is also true that many governmental agencies not connected with national defense and without any legitimate reason to withhold information have done so simply to prevent public disclosure of their mistakes.

Democracy can work well only if the public is fully informed on governmental affairs. That is why censorship is contrary to the public interest.

Eisenhower May Not Resist Political Pressure

A little while back, President Eisenhower told newsmen he wasn't going to get into the thick of next year's political campaign.

He said he wanted to avoid using the presidency as an agency in elections, and to stay out of partisan struggles in particular districts or states.

A New York Times reporter later that same day elicited from the White House staff the statement that this probably did not mean the President would not speak generally for the Republican ticket. It meant only that he would not risk his personal prestige in backing specific candidates.

This "modification," however, was not widely broadcast. GOP politicians took alarm at the word their popular President would not hit the road to help re-elect them.

So, a week later, Mr. Eisenhower was compelled to say to another news conference something that roughly resembled what the Times reporter had learned earlier.

He made plain he still had no intention of stumping the country through a wide range of districts. But he indicated that he might very likely do some campaign touring.

In the course of that effort, he said he would be willing to help individual candidates to the extent of posing with them for pictures. It is the custom of politicians naturally, to offer such photographs as evidence of open endorsement.

Yet he stressed that in his view this was not the way he could be of best aid in the re-election of another Republican Congress.

What he wants to do, he said, is to develop and see enacted a program so dynamic, so forward-looking, so adapted to the country's needs that every candidate running under the umbrella of that program would have a substantial edge on his rival.

To achieve that end, Mr. Eisenhower thinks he should keep at his job as much as possible, going out to the country only enough to explain and extol the program to the voters.

The President has a very high conception of his office as belonging to all the people regardless of party. He may also understand that he could do his own party more harm than good by becoming too deeply embroiled in the grubby chores of partisan politicking.

Yet what he now proposes to do in 1954 may in fact be impossible to hold to. For as time passes and the pressures mount, Mr. Eisenhower will come to realize that politicians regard a President of their party as their servant, and indeed perhaps their savior. And he will be hard put to resist their demands for help.

Questions and Answers

Q—What is a countervailing duty?

A—A countervailing duty is an import tax designed to nullify the advantage of a foreign exporter whose government subsidizes him (through outright bounties or such devices as currency manipulation) in order to give his goods a competitive advantage in the U. S. market. Theoretically the countervailing duty is just enough to equal the subsidy and put domestic goods and imports on an equal basis.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Four of the biggest chemical concerns in the nation have just shown a unique and laudable desire to cooperate with the Food and Drug Administration in protecting public health. They have voluntarily withdrawn coumarin from a market as a substitute in making vanilla extract.

A few years ago such cooperation was unheard of. Most companies bucked the Food and Drug Administration. In 1938 Rex Tugwell resigned as undersecretary of agriculture as a result of the battle over the new pure food and drug bill. The bill was called unworkable, socialistic. Mrs. Roosevelt was accused of being the secret sponsor. Tugwell fought for its passage, but got so bloodied in the political melee that he considered himself a liability to Roosevelt and resigned.

Today, however, this same much-maligned food and drug act not only is working but many big companies cooperate wholeheartedly in its enforcement. In the case of coumarin, Dow Chemical of Midland, Mich., Monsanto of St. Louis, Du Pont of Wilmington, and the Trubek Laboratories of East Rutherford, N. J., all withdrew the drug voluntarily for use as a food.

Coumarin is a coal tar product used as a cheap synthetic substitute for vanilla extract. Experiment found, however, that it has been responsible for many cases of sclerosis of the liver, in fact may be the chief cause of this disease. The four companies voluntarily brought this to the attention of the food and drug administration, said they were withdrawing coumarin. They will use the more expensive but safer vanilla bean instead.

Note—Medical technicians say it may be some time before the nation knows how many diseases are caused by new synthetic foods or from the by-products of modern, mechanical civilization. At a recent meeting of the Cancer Society it was shown that cancer of the lung probably resulted largely from gas, coal and oil fumes released in industrial cities.

SPILLING SECRETS

The first time President Eisenhower tangled with Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson over a faux pas, it gave Ike an upset stomach. He got so wrought up over Wilson's statement that there was no danger Russia could deliver the hydrogen bomb, he spent the week end in bed from hypertension.

The second Wilson faux pas didn't upset Ike so much. This was when Wilson announced that the United States was pulling one division out of Europe at the very same time Secretary of State Dulles was assuring Europeans just the opposite. As a result of this faux pas, the U. S. will have to slow up the planned withdrawal of land troops.

The third defense department faux pas was the Talbott statement over storing atom bombs in Spain. This time the President called in both Wilson and Secretary of State Dulles and really raised the roof. Dulles had told the President that Talbott's statement played right into the hands of the Russian propagandists. It almost convinced our European allies that the United States intended to base its defenses on Spain, Dulles said, and abandon Europe to Russian case of war. The last thing France wants is to be invaded again while we defend Europe from the safety of Spain behind the Pyrenees.

President Eisenhower, who spent a year pacifying French fears re this and other matters, was furious. Although he plays bridge with Talbott almost every Sunday, he told Secretary Wilson that Talbott's statement was in direct violation of his order that all subordinates must clear any statement about atomic weapons with the atomic energy commission.

MEK SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Furthermore, reprimanded the President, he wanted no more conflicting statements from his subordinates on any subject. Talbott, Ike said, had no business talking about these secret plans at any time or at place. It was up to Wilson to make sure the Pentagon keeps order.

Secretary Wilson was quite meek. He agreed with the President, immediately cabled a sharp rebuke to Talbott, demanding a word-by-word report on exactly what he had said.

Simultaneously, Wilson checked with the Associated Press to ask how reliable its Madrid man was who had reported Talbott's statement. The AP replied that he was completely reliable. Later it developed that 20 newspapermen, including five Americans attended Talbott's press conference. There was no question about the accuracy of the AP report.

In cabling to Secretary Talbott, Secretary Wilson did not demand that he retract his statement. However, Talbott, in trying to extricate his own foot from his own mouth, issued a categorical denial of what he had said. Diplomatic denials are not uncommon around here, but this was one of the most brazen denials Washington has seen in some years.

The Reds Leave a Monument

Fictional Ex-Soldier Like GI Who Almost Went To Reds

By SUMNER AHLBUM

NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—This fall, by remote coincidence, the four lives of a couple of soldiers from the Cumberland Hills reached a climax in the public prints.

One is a fictional ex-soldier named Mundy Tolliver of Coal Creek, Ky., a southern highlander whose four lives are chronicled in a new novel by Ben Lucien Burman, himself a Cumberland son whose fame has spread more than somewhat as a storyteller of the southern hills and rivers.

The other is a real-life soldier, Pfc. Edward S. Dickenson, of Big Stone Gap, Va., where the Cumberland arch across the border into Kentucky. His four lives came to flower in Panmunjom, Korea, where, as a prisoner of the Chinese Communists, he first rejected repatriation and then changed his mind "to come back with my own people."

And when Ed Dickenson finally gets back to his own people, in a remote cabin "straight up" the mountain from Big Stone Gap, the welcome will doubtless be as simple and direct as the one Ben Burman pictured when Mundy Tolliver turned up at Uncle Lacey's cabin in the pines up Little Double Creek.

"You done come back from the war, Mundy," said Uncle Lacey.

That is just about the way it will be, for Ben Burman knows these southern mountain folk the way Damon Runyon knew his Broadway guys and dolls. His latest book, "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver," began getting acclaim from reviewers all over the country about the same time Dickenson was making up his mind to come home after all.

Ed Dickenson could easily be the mountain twin of Mundy Tolliver, and what led to Ed's strange emergence from the never-never land of communism could easily be set down as "The Four Lives of Private Dickenson."

Ben Burman mulled over the parallel the other day in his New York hotel, relaxed in a big chair, his feet in elderly slippers. He studied a sheaf of newspaper clippings, and in an accent from which you can distill pure Kentucky, observed:

"How did it happen that a Cumberland mountaineer went Com-mie for a while? I don't know this chap Dickenson. But I know Mundy Tolliver, and they're both the same."

How are they the same?

"Here's a boy, Dickenson, just like Mundy, coming out of the mountains, who doesn't know anything about the outside world. He's grown up in a culture 100 years back—a frontier civilization where they still plant corn by the phases of the moon.

"And then he goes into the Army—a new, strange, world. I knew lots of Kentucky boys in the Army in the first World War. They made good soldiers. But maybe, like Mundy, Dickenson was too much of an individualist.

"A great deal of the misunderstanding about the southern hill folk is because of their individualism. That's why they feuded; they believe in the right to administer their own justice. And that's why they moonshine; it's their corn, and they don't think anybody has any right to tell them what to do with it.

"Mundy got bitter when he couldn't marry Essie right away, and then he got even more bitter because Uncle Lacey got cheated on his property, and he turned to moonshining.

"Dickenson was probably bitter about being in prison camp, although mountain folk take things like that pretty stoically. But then he says he got a letter from a girl back in Big Stone Gap—a 'Dear John' letter, which isn't mountain language, but GI slang for a broken romance.

"Where Mundy went moonshining, Dickenson went with the Communists. It had to be something like that, because of all the people in the world who wouldn't go Communist, you can take the southern highlanders. They're the most terrific individualists in the world.

"But they also see things simply. If a boy learns to grow corn by the moon, how do you expect him to understand world affairs? He wouldn't understand the police state or the fact that what the Reds told him was propaganda. And because of his simple intensity, when he got the letter he says he did from the girl, very likely he said 'the hell with everything, even the country she comes from.'"

Then why did Dickenson change again, and want to come home after he said he didn't? Ben Burman thumbed the clippings for a minute and let his mind drift back to the Cumberlands, then went on: "I said they're pretty intense people who don't talk much, but feel deeply. Maybe he saw an American uniform while he was sitting there in the neutral camp at Panmunjom, or maybe he heard an American accent. That would be enough."

And that would be, like "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver," a fourth life for Pfc. Dickenson—first as a Cumberland farm boy, then a soldier, a prisoner, and finally repatriation.

The reunion in the hills ought to be about the same, too. In "Mundy Tolliver," as Ben wrote it, Mundy took a cup of coffee from Essie, sipped it, and said: "If a trucker ever tasted this coffee they'd be driving here from all over the world."

Ben started thinking about what Ed Dickenson might say when he gets back to Big Stone Gap and "the biggest chicken dinner he ever saw," his mother promises him. When Ben gets thinking like that, he takes himself back into the Cumberlands and talks their folk tongue.

"He won't say much about being home," Ben concluded. "He'll taste that chicken and look up seriously and say something like: 'That's the trouble with them Chinese Communists. They sure don't know how to cook a chicken.'"

POTATO GROWERS—Delta County potato growers are recognized leaders in the industry in the Upper Peninsula and in the state.

They have attained that enviable position only by a combination of hard work, experience, and cooperation with Michigan State College extension service in following recommended practices.

Many of the farm boys and girls in the county, members of 4-H Clubs, have followed in their father's footsteps and grow potatoes as a club project. Their success has been varied, and Fred Bernhardt, county 4-H agent, reports that some are dropping out of potato clubs.

"One boy, when asked how he had harvested his crop, replied, 'Oh, I just opened the basement window and took my shingshot and shot them in,' Bernhardt smiled.

But most of the yields are up there in the 300 and 400-bushel an acre class and Delta County boys and girls won most of the top honors in junior potato growing competition at the recent U. P. potato show at Ironwood.

Escanaba businessmen have an indirect influence on the potato industry—a good effect that began 13 years ago when the Potato Boosters was organized. Trophies and cash awards are presented each year to the high placing growers in the Booster contest.

RESORT BUSINESS—Another growing industry (but not potatoes) is the tourist business of Delta County, indicated by the increasing number of motels, cabins, tourist courts and other facilities for summer visitors.

In this expansion there is a demand for shore property among those who like to have their own camp or cottage to spend a few weeks or the summer. For the tourist business has brought a real estate boom as well.

Much of Delta County's more than 200 miles of shoreline is in two peninsulas—Stonington and Garden—that has not yet been opened to the public. And a considerable shoreline mileage is in state ownership.

Directly south of Garden on the Lake Michigan side of the Garden Peninsula is a new shore area that this past summer became accessible by road for the first time. Joseph Desrochers of Garden, who had the road constructed through to the sand beach, tells me the site has an interesting history.

Who in Delta County knows the location of a town once named Wellsberg? One million feet of pine lumber was shipped out of Wellsberg—which was located where Desrochers road comes out on a bay on Lake Michigan.

There is little to mark the place today, but Wellsberg was once a thriving milltown. The passing years erased even the roads leading to the town. Now they are being opened again and the demand for shore lots may make old Wellsberg come back to life.

THE DEER HUNTERS—While this is not a new industry, it is an old standby in the economy of Delta County and Northern Michigan. Deer hunting, Nov. 15 to 30, inclusive, annually attracts thousands of sportsmen to the area.

Satisfying their needs gives many a small town businessman a "bonus" boost in revenue that he would not otherwise receive.

Rapid River is generally considered the deer hunters center of operations for Delta County, and the merchants and people go out of their way to make the hunters feel welcome.

We doubt whether the majority of visiting hunters want to see towns much larger than Rapid River when they come north. They are out for a week or more in the "woods" and the bright lights of the "big town" has little attraction for them.

Not only that, hunters are gregarious creatures when they do come to town for supplies, and Rapid River has become a natural headquarters as a place to swap tall stories about the big one that got away.

Some of the best hunting country in the area is not far distant from Rapid River, and the deer slayers can make that community their center of operations, starting out early in the morning and coming back to warm lodgings in the evening.

Yes, the deer hunters bring dollars into the area that our people would not otherwise see. Perhaps those hunters should receive more attention—but we doubt they would appreciate it. They like the hunting and they will continue to return so long as there are deer to be had.

The Doctor Says...

Chronic Diarrhea May Be Caused By Serious Ailment

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Chronic diarrhea, a common human ailment, produces discomfort and can be extremely annoying and troublesome. A reader wants me to discuss the problem.

Diarrhea is not, strictly speaking, a disease since many different disorders can cause this symptom. The most common cause, however, is that which is of nervous origin. Many people seem to show the effects of nervousness or emotional strain by developing diarrhea. The intestinal nerves control the wave-like motions by which intestinal contents are carried on down the digestive tract.

When a susceptible person becomes excited or emotionally upset, the nerve control of the intestines is disturbed, the wave-like motions are increased, and what is called diarrhea develops.

Animal parasites like ameba and germs may cause diarrhea. Ulcerative colitis is the most serious variety. It is a disease in which there are many signs of infection and in which small ulcers form in part of the intestine causing bleeding and irritation.

Other common causes of chronic diarrhea are cancer involving the lower bowel, some kinds of operations on the stomach, certain general diseases, including allergy, goiter and diabetes, and some diseases due to deficiency of the diet. In spastic colitis, diarrhea tends to alternate with constipation.

Unless one knows what the possibilities are and how to identify the source of the trouble, and these methods include X-rays and other special examinations, proper treatment is impossible.

OFTEN IMPROVISE CURE

Far too often people with chronic diarrhea merely try to buy something at a drugstore which will "quiet them down." Although many drugs may do this for a short time, such self-treatment is a dangerous thing, as it may hide some serious condition.

Although it is true that many cases of chronic diarrhea can exist for years without causing death or serious injury, there are many cases on record where people have gone on too long with what they thought was a minor symptom. When the diagnosis eventually was made the underlying condition was too far advanced to

Hunters Told How To Avoid Becoming Lost

With deer season luring thousands into the north woods, a few always manage to get lost. To stay out of the "lost hunter" fraternity, heed these suggestions:

Once camp has been set up, locate and mark location on your map.

Acquaint yourself with base features of map.

When leaving camp, orient yourself with compass and map. Know direction headed.

When crossing stream or road, check map to get oriented.

Note local names of landings, bridges, etc.

Believe Your Compass

Start return trip so as to get back before dark.

If camped with group, and you decide to hunt alone, do not forget to advise others.

Familiarize yourself with boot prints of party members.

Consult compass for direction. Do not "argue" with compass.

Try to avoid getting panicky. Sit down, smoke if necessary, and listen for car or train sounds.

If it appears you will not find your way out before dark, select sheltered spot and gather wood to last through night.

Build A Fire

Build Fire.

Do not waste ammunition; conserve your strength, food and

If still lost, and tracks are snow covered in morning, walk due east, south, west or north for about a half-mile. Backpack to fire and build it up. Repeat process in other three directions, returning to fire each time. Searchers will find tracks and come to your fire.

Remember, the searching party will not be organized until it is known you are lost. Never leave your fire to find the searching party; let the searching party find you.

Deer Better Off Now Than Before Forests Were Cut

Little is known of the history of deer and their range in the Upper Peninsula (previous to 1850), but much can be assumed, game biologists report.

The weather probably was about as now, with five months of winter and a short summer. The mature, uncut forest consisted of hardwood, handwood-conifer mixtures, conifer swamps, blocks of pine and scattered plains areas. Deer must have found very poor winter cover and almost no winter food under this big timber. Consequently, they must have been relatively scarce over much of the Upper Peninsula before logging started. Early explorers mention the extreme scarcity of game and the difficulty with which the native Indians as well as they themselves obtained venison.

There are reports that deer from the Upper Peninsula migrated south into what is now Wisconsin each winter, returning north as the snows receded. If such a movement occurred it had ceased by 1870.

Logging let sunlight into the forest, which stimulated the growth of ground vegetation and young trees. With an increased food supply, deer increased. By 1870 they were considered "plentiful" in many areas. From 1880 to 1890, market hunting so depleted the herds that they were at low ebb by around 1900.

In more recent years with restrictive hunting regulations, better law observance, and re-growth of ground vegetation and young trees, the herd has again built up.

Building Of Subs More Complicated

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—Submarine building is a lot more complex today than it was even as recently as World War II.

The Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corporation, builder of the world's first atomic power submarine, says the complexity of its work is demonstrated by the number of design personnel on its payroll.

During World War II the company had one designer for every sixty employees. Now the ratio is close to one to ten.

Name Rules For Hunting Safety

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety, your best insurance against an accident. Don't be the fellow who pleads, "I didn't know it was loaded!"

2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, in to your automobile, camp, and home. It's easy enough to fire a gun by accident, without putting equipment in the car, taking it out or even through a jolting ride. Don't let it happen to you.

3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions. Should you accidentally bring a gun muzzle into contact with snow or mud, check it immediately to be sure the barrel is not plugged. Check it from the breech end, even if you have to take the gun apart. Don't look down the muzzle!

4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble. This is especially important when hunting with another person or in a party. Carry your gun with the safety on until you're ready to shoot.

5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. Don't shoot at a moving object in heavy cover without knowing exactly what you are shooting at.

6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.

7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first. Leaning a gun against a tree or fence where it may slide and fall, or be accidentally discharged in any manner, is criminal negligence.

8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun. If you must cross a fence, pass the gun through the fence first, with the safety on, then climb over and pick it up. When crossing a stream where footing is treacherous, unload the gun or carry it with the action open.

9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface, or the surface of water. Shot and bullets may glance from rocks, trees, and even water, injuring others who are apparently not in the line of fire.

10. Don't mix gunpowder and alcohol. A gun belongs only in the hands of a person in full possession of his faculties. A little nip may seem the thing to warm up a cold, dreary day, but if you are inclined to take that nip, wait until the hunting is over and the guns are safely put aside.

Tuxedos get their name from an exclusive club in Tuxedo Park, N. Y., where they were seen in 1886 for the first time in the United States.

Advise Earlier Spud Marketing

(Michigan Farm Economics)

Past experience suggests that Michigan potato growers should market a much larger part of their 1953 crop earlier in the season than usual.

The September crop reports indicate a 1953 crop of 299 million bushels in the 29 late - potato states, 6 percent more than last year. The new crop of late potatoes is 7 percent below the 1942-51 average, but the declining trend in per capita consumption, the surplus production during some of those years, and the trend of potato prices during the 1952-53 season, show that the crop is large in relation to demand. Late selling has usually been profitable only in small crop years.

The crop prospects in three important areas give further support to the advisability of selling more Michigan potatoes early in the season this year. A record crop of 70 million bushels in Maine (35 percent over 1952), a 9 percent larger crop in the central lake states than last year, and an Idaho crop slightly above average, taken together, means that Michigan potatoes face greater competition in their market territory.

A tendency by shippers in these states to "hold back" in early season sales would further encourage early season sales by Michigan growers and shippers. On the other hand, if early season shipments from these states are more than proportionately heavier than last year, it may be profitable to store a larger part of the Michigan crop for a limited time. It will be especially important to check market news reports frequently to see which trend develops.

Michigan's oil production in the first 10 months of 1953 totaled 19,371,652 barrels, exceeding the total 1952 production of 18,744,709 barrels. The 1953 production set the previous high record for any year.

Inside Michigan Magazine Sued

KALAMAZOO (P) — John Schuring, a Portage township insurance dealer, has filed a $50,000 libel suit against Arthur Hagman of Detroit, publisher of "Inside Michigan" magazine.

Schuring charged that he was libeled by an article in the magazine's November issue which discussed governmental affairs in the township.

Schuring himself holds no office in the township. His son, Claus, is township clerk.

A summons was slapped on Hagman Monday night as the publisher was speaking at a school in Portage township.

Byrnes Says Truman Knew All About Spy

fore the Senate acted on White's nomination by Truman as director of the International Monetary fund.

He said he called at the White House the following day when the Senate confirmed the nomination, and he suggested that Truman should refuse to issue a commission to White. Byrnes quoted the former President as saying he had been told that once the Senate acted he had no alternative but to issue a commission.

Denies Soviet Link
"I told him if he should send for White and tell him about Hoover's report, White would never resort to the courts."

White was confirmed by the Senate for the monetary fund job on Feb. 6, 1946. He died in 1948 a few days after swearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee that he had no connection with a Soviet spy ring.

Brownell said Monday copies of the first FBI report were sent to Byrnes and to these other members of the Truman Cabinet: Atty. Gen. Tom C. Clark, Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal and Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson. Forrestal and Vinson, who later became chief justices, are dead. Clark, now a Supreme Court justice, was not available for comment.

Leahy Can't Recall
Brownell said copies also went to Leahy and Braden and to Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, then a lieutenant general in charge of War Department intelligence; and to Fred Lyon, a State Department division chief. Neither Lyon nor Vandenberg, a patient at Walter Reed Army Hospital, could be reached.

Adm. Leahy told a reporter: "I never saw any FBI report on Harry Dexter White as far as I can recall."

Braden said in New York he recalls seeing an FBI report in late 1945 describing the activities of Alger Hiss and others suspected of Communist affiliations, but he added: "If White's name were in the report I think I would have remembered it."

White spent 14 years in government service, most of it in the Treasury Department, where he became an assistant secretary. Brownell said that, when Truman announced early in 1946 that White would be named to the monetary fund, "the FBI compiled a special report concerning . . . White and his espionage activities."

Copies of this report, Brownell said, went to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, then Truman's military aide, at the White House, Clark in the Justice Department, and Lyon at the State Department.

Vaughan has denied knowledge of such a report.

NEW YORK (P)—The stock market subsided quietly today without undue selling pressure developing in any area.

All security and commodity markets will be closed Wednesday for Armistice Day.

Losses went to between one and two points at the most, but declines of that size were infrequent. Gains were small.

Volume was right around Monday's 1,440,000 share, a figure above the daily average so far this year.

Among major divisions going down were railroads, tobaccos, steels, motors, oils, radio-televisions, and chemicals. Others were mixed.

Lower were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Baltimore & Ohio, Texas Co., United Air Lines, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Liggett & Myers, American Tobacco, and Radio Corp.

U. S. government securities in the over the counter market were steady.

New State Business Receipts Tax Falls Short Of Estimates

LANSING (P) — State revenue officials estimated today that Michigan's new business receipts tax did not bring in quite as much money as expected in its first quarterly payment.

But, Revenue Commissioner Clarence L. Lock said he thought the tax would produce close to the expected $30,000,000 to $32,000,000 when full enforcement is obtained.

The deadline for the first quarterly payment was Oct. 31, but it was extended 15 days because of confusion over the first return.

Subpoena Issued For Truman In Russian Spy Case

WASHINGTON (P) — A member of the House Un-American Activities Committee said today it has issued a subpoena for the appearance of former President Truman Thursday for questioning in the Harry Dexter White case.

The committee member, a Democrat who did not wish to be identified, said he did not know whether the subpoena had yet been served on Truman who is now in New York.

He said a subpoena for the same day also has been issued for former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

Byrnes, now governor of South Carolina, has supported the charge of Atty. Gen. Brownell that Truman promoted White, one-time assistant Treasury secretary although the President was aware of FBI reports that White was a Soviet spy.

Couillard, on probation from a charge earlier this year in Circuit Court of larceny of a tire and wheel, was picked up because he violated a probation condition that he should not drive, own or operate a motor vehicle for the four-year probation period.

Lock said returns worth $5,300,000 have been validated so far and that another 3,000 to 5,000 return forms still are being processed.

He estimated the total quarterly payment will hit about $6,000,000, one to two million dollars short of the expected income.

Lock said all of the known large taxpayers in the state have paid their tax and that some of them were not as large as the department expected.

"I guess some of our expectations were a little generous," Lock remarked.

He declined to disclose the payments, Lock said, probably result from the effects of the so-called "allocation formula." This permits corporations in interstate business to figure their tax on the ratio of their state and out-of-state operations.

Lock said he would meet with a special legislative committee before Dec. 1 to recommend improvements in the new law and would urge a review of the allocation formula.

Big Timber Sales By Forest Service

Leo L. Leveille of Cooks bought 5,100 cords of spruce and jack-pine pulpwood, and 10,000 feet of red- and white-pine sawlogs, for $14,850.00. Knudson said. The wood is from forest east of Steuben.

Brighten Dusty Offices To Lure Business Girls

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Business men who expect to keep any office help are advised by two experts to brighten up their "dusty, fusty" offices and install a "lush, posh" atmosphere.

With competition for competent secretaries ever keener, the recent comments of Miss Bernice Fitz-Gibbon, New York advertising executive, to a group of college job-placement officials, are likely to make things even tougher for the tired business man.

She Wants Privacy
Advising college officers, Miss Fitz-Gibbon chided them for sending beautiful girls off to work in dull offices and recommended they demand the best for their graduates.

The man who expects to snare one of these prizes might as well be prepared to make her working hours a pleasure.

The secretary worth having will demand, of course, such things as an electric typewriter, a dictating machine, foam-rubber upholstered office chairs and two hours for lunch.

But to keep her happy, the forward-looking employer is going to have to go even further, says Robert Dunlap, president of the Connecticut Telephone and Electric Corp.

Today's secretary deserves privacy for her confidential inter-office conversations, says he. And if she wants to make a date with the boss' son without her employer listening in, that should be her privilege. Most secretaries also get frazzled nerves from the old-fashioned "squawk box" intercommunication system, from which the boss' voice may thunder at any moment.

Other Lures Needed
Dunlap recommends installation of the new private line inter-office telephones, by which any member of the office staff may carry on a private conversation with any co-worker, with no danger of eavesdropping by nosy bosses or even by a switchboard operator.

The new system was shown at the recent business show in New York, and attracted admiring attention from secretaries.

The employer might create a happy atmosphere by having fresh flowers sent to his secretary's desk every morning, and by re-painting the office in her favorite color scheme—say pink, with phones to match.

Of course, the best way of getting a secretary is for the boss to advertise that he is young, handsome, rich and unmarried. But since so few employers meet these qualifications, they must think up other lures.

Family Reunion Held At Home Of Emil DeBacker

ROCK — A family reunion in honor of Sister Jean Gabriel, sister of Emil DeBacker, was held at the DeBacker residence Sunday.

Sister Jean was able to visit at one time with all seventeen grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. DeBacker. She loves little children, having done special mission work as a Sister of Charity for 36 years.

The group enjoyed their visit with Sister Jean, for she had many stories to tell of her life as sister of charity. She said she had wanted to become a sister from the time she was a little girl, and finally at the age of 19, her dream was realized.

She asked for special mission work, which took her to China. Of the 29 years she spent in China, 23 were spent at an orphanage in Peking which had one of the largest orphanages in China. There were as many as 1,000 orphans there at one time. The 32 sisters in charge had to do most of the work themselves and it was not unusual to see them out in the field or tending to the cattle.

Proud of Habit
Many of the orphans were badly crippled, but most of the Chinese women were very skillful at embroidery, making venetian lace and other things that could be sold.

When her grandchildren asked her, as children will, why she wears different clothes than they do, she told them that the Sisters of Charity have worn the same type of garment for 302 years, and she is very proud to be privileged to wear it.

She will have visited in America four weeks when she boards the plane from Detroit for Europe Nov. 12.

Transportation is no problem now she says. Back in 1922 when she went to China by boat, it took 36 days to travel from Belgium to China. Returning in 1951, it took 48 hours flying time from Hong Kong to Brussels. Sister Jean is not the only Sister in the family. She has a sister, Sister Angeline who is a teacher in native Belgium.

To Belgian Congo

Sometime in December, Sister Jean will leave on her next mission work which will take her to the interior of the Belgian Congo. She said it is a place called the Yambi on the Congo river. The people in that part of Africa still eat human flesh and wear no clothing. Sister Jean with two other Sisters and two priests will open a parish school and mission in an effort to help these people.

Sister Jean said that for 36 years she had not seen her brother, and had never met her sister-in-law, until now. It was like a miracle when she learned she had the opportunity to come to America for a visit, a chance she thinks will not come again.

Those attending the reunion Sunday were Miss Jane DeBacker, East Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Paul VanDamme, Mike, Clara and Charon of Cornell, Route 1; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome DeBacker, Sandy, Harry, Debra, and Jeffrey, Cornell, Route 1. Jeffrey is the youngest member, age three weeks; Mr. and Mrs. Pat DeBacker, Pat Jr., Billy and Bonnie, Rock; Mr. and Mrs. Gerard VanDamme, Art and Bobbie, St. Nicholas; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Beauchamp, Barbara, Jean, Tommy, David and Donna, St. Nicholas.

Missing from the group were Mrs. DeBackers' father, Joseph

Franklin Lash Tells Of Jamboree At DAR Meeting

Franklin Lash, Gladstone High School student, who attended the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Irvine Ranch, Calif., in July gave a comprehensive and thoroughly entertaining report of Jamboree highlights at the regular meeting of Lewis Cass Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John C. Norton Jr. in Gladstone.

The young student, a Second Class Scout who is working for First Class, gave a brief history of Scouting since its organization in 1910, in his introduction.

History of Scouting
Six World Jamborees and three National Jamborees have been held, he told his listeners, and another World Jamboree is planned for January of 1954 in Australia.

He described in detail the trip of the 64 members of Hiawathaland Boy Scout Council attending from this area, including the train travel and stops for church services and sight-seeing. Continuing the told of the assembly of the 55,000 Scouts, the camp duties and recreation, the visits to places of note, and the outstanding figures in government and the entertainment field who appeared on Jamboree programs.

Study of Constitution
A son of a retired Soo Line engineer, J. M. Lash, he incorporated in his report, his story of the trip which appeared in a recent edition of "The Soo-liner", official publication of the company.

Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr., called attention to the recent announcement that Baylor University at Waco, Tex., is about to institute a compulsory course for students on the U. S. Constitution.

A large collection of articles to be packed in Christmas boxes for the D. A. R. approved schools, was received at the meeting.

Manistique Men Tell Of Violins

Manistique Rotarians heard how violins are made and played, at their regular meeting Monday, in a program presented by the Rev. Paul Sobel, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Redeemer, and Carl Olson, principal of Manistique High School.

The two violinists played a number of selections, including "Play Gypsy, Dance Gypsy," "Lover Come Back to Me," Swedish polkas and wedding marches; illustrated how violins are made from 70 pieces of wood, and told of the history of the instrument.

Principal Olson, who makes models of rare violins as a hobby, exhibited full-size models of the Maggini, Amati, Guarneri and Stradivarius violins; the tools used in making the instruments, and the various types of wood used.

Golden Age Of Violins

During their program, presented in the form of a radio interview, the two men noted that the violin as we know it today originated in the 16th century. "Stringed instruments date much farther back in history than that, but the violin played with a bow and capable of producing a sustained note originated in that period," they explained.

Principal Olson, who described the styles characteristic of early violin-making "dynasties," noted that "The period 1550 to 1750 was the Golden Age of violin-making."

He added that in the past 300 years little improvement has been made on the instrument. Present-day violins, he said, are one pitch higher than early-day violins, and have a neck a fourth of an inch longer. Some very fine violins are being made in the United States today, he emphasized.

"Most old violins used today have the longer neck added, but retain the scroll characteristic of the family which made it," he explained.

Wood Samples Shown

During the program, the MHS principal showed Rotarians a "rebec," a forerunner of the violin. The model exhibited by Olson has six strings, is shaped like a mandolin, and is played with a bow.

Samples of maple wood used for the sides, back and neck of a violin and the straight-grained spruce used for the top were exhibited by Olson, who makes violins in a basement workshop.

Song For George Drew

Also shown by the MHS principal were a fiddle "corps" or body before it is finished; the wooden mold used to bend the sides; gouges, chisels, planes as small as 1-inch in length, and other tools used for making the parts; and drills and sharpeners used to make perfect-fitting tapered pegs.

The two also described the Guadagnini violin, played by Rev. Sobel and the Gagliani and Bregetius.

In closing the Manistique violinists played "O Dry Those Tears," in memory of the late George Drew.

MANISTIQUE

MARK 25 YEARS — Carl Olson, principal of Manistique High School, at left in the back row in the above picture, and Cliff M. Drury of East Lansing, state YMCA secretary, to his left, this year are marking the 25th year they have worked together on school Hi-Y plans. Both started on Hi-Y work in Upper Michigan in 1928. With them are current Hi-Y officers in

Japanese Youths Hopeful, Drury Tells MHS Students

The mode of living of young people in Japan was described Monday for Manistique High School students who are members of the Hi-Y club by Cliff M. Drury of East Lansing, state YMCA secretary.

Drury, who with Carl Olson, MHS principal, is marking his 25th year of work in Upper Michigan with Hi-Y clubs, was in Japan for five months in 1950. He was assigned by the U. S. War Department to work with top level leaders in youth work to show the Japanese how these activities were carried on in a democracy.

The state YMCA secretary told students here of the congested homes in Japan, resulting from the custom of several generations of a family living in the same household; of the lack of recreational opportunities for Japanese youths except for walking; and of the high hopes these youngsters have for their country as a democracy. "Not all of the Japanese students, however, have these high hopes," Drury stressed. There are "lots of Communists too," he noted.

The state YMCA leader noted the Japanese young people have "little to look forward to" in terms of jobs and educational opportunities, yet have high hopes. He said he wondered if Americans would be as hopeful in similar situations.

The Japanese now are doing well in educating their young people, Drury stated, but observed that not many women are going to college as yet. The Japanese have a high percentage of literacy, he stated, and the country now has compulsory education through the 9th grade.

Most Japanese students finish the 12th grade, he said, but the proportion of high school graduates entering the colleges is lower than in the United States, because not many women attend college. However, women are gaining in status in Japanese, he observed.

Japanese youths are becoming more Westernized in their dress, Drury noted, but family relations have changed little. "The great grandfather in a Japanese family is most often the baby sitter, he told students.

Drury, who began work with Hi-Y groups in 1923, worked with leaders of Boy Scouting and Girl Scouting, the YMCA and the YWCA, 4-H groups and the American Junior Red Cross while in the Far East.

While in Manistique, the state YMCA secretary noted that the high school here as had a "corking Hi-Y club" through the years, and that the school now has about 45 students engaged in Hi-Y work.

A Hi-Y club, he explained, is a group of high school boys whose purpose it is to create, maintain and extend in the school and community high standards of Christian character. There are about 25 groups in Upper Michigan, he said.

The Hi-Y organization is international in scope and now covers 72 countries in the world, the state secretary said. The movement originated in England in 1844 and started in the United States in 1851, he noted.

The project originated with posts at Ishpeming and Negaunee, and each of these units started fund accounts for the television set. Later other posts were asked to assist.

Variety shows, dances, white elephant sales and other social events were sponsored by VFW posts in eastern Upper Michigan to raise the necessary funds.

Writing for installation of the TV set at the hospital has already been started, Anderson reports.

VFW posts, in addition to their special projects for the Iron Mountain hospital, take turns visiting and entertaining men there. Once a month, one of the posts presents a show for patients and sends several post and auxiliary members to visit with them.

Schoolcraft County last sponsored the monthly show in September.

Both cars were extensively damaged in the accident.

Council Hears Proposal Of Sewage Survey Here

A proposal for consulting engineering services for a survey of the Manistique sewage problem and plans for construction of a sewage disposal plant were outlined for the Manistique City Council, at its regular meeting Monday night, by Robert J. Ellison of St. Paul.

The Council took no action on the matter, but indicated it felt such a survey would be desirable and that members would give the proposition further study.

Ellison, who was in Manistique two weeks ago, recommended that the city have a survey made to provide it with up-to-date information on sewage disposal facilities and problems. He said he also would draw up working details and plans for a sewage disposal plant here and inspect and supervise construction of such a plant, if the Council desires.

Underlying Rock Problem
The St. Paul consulting engineers informed Councilmen he would make the preliminary survey report for $2,150 less a $650 allowance for present plans and reports, or a total of $1,500.

Cost of preliminary plans, he stated, would be computed at 4 1/2 per cent of the construction cost of a sewage disposal plant, less the amount paid for the preliminary survey. Costs of inspection and supervision of construction vary according to the amount of services needed or requested by the city, he stated.

Ellison stressed that a preliminary survey report should take into account "all of the sewage problems" and that the city should have complete information on the problem before deciding what action to take.

Underlying rock in the east section of Manistique and combined storm and sanitary sewers are among the special problems Manistique will need to consider when planning its sewage system, Ellison noted.

Last Survey In 1945
Sewage treatment plant costs have increased but cost of sewers is about the same as a few years ago, the consulting engineer informed Councilmen.

Councilman A. W. Heitman noted that the Michigan Water Resources Commission has cited the City of Manistique for pollution of water and declared the revenue involved in cost of the survey would "be money well-spent."

Heitman also pointed out that the preliminary report would inform the public of sewage problems in the city, and that the city will need it in meeting demands of the Water Resources Commission in regard to stream pollution.

"This is no reflection on the Francis Engineering Company, which surveyed the Manistique sewage problem in 1945," Heitman stated.

Bottle Gas Installations
The City of Manistique had master plans for streets, sewers and water prepared in 1945. Orson Livermore, acting city manager, stated.

The city empties sewage into the Manistique River at two places and in Lake Michigan at one place. An additional problem in the sewer system here is an uphill line on Garden avenue, where sewage has to be pumped, the city manager reported.

The Council Monday night requested that the city attorney investigate to determine what regulations, if any, control installation and inspection of bottle gas facilities. The matter was brought before the Council by A. W. Heitman, who noted that the gas used is heavier than air, and could cause serious explosions and fires if installations are not properly made and maintained.

Dog Ordinances
In other business at its regular session the Council considered the following:

A letter from Col. George Kumpke of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Milwaukee district, asking that the city assist in preventing damage to marine signs in Manistique harbor. Col. Kumpke reported warning signs, which previously were marred to the point of illegibility, now are being replaced. The Council asked that the city manager have the police chief investigate.

Comedy Slated Here Saturday

Students of Manistique High School will present their first play of the school year, Christopher Sergel's "A Case of Springtime," in the school auditorium Saturday night, Nov. 14.

Curtain time for the 3-act comedy, directed by Marvin Fredrickson, school dramatic coach, is 8:15 p. m.

Students note that the question most likely to be asked after seeing this comedy is "How can one boy get into so many difficulties?" The leading character, Bob Parker, played by Fritz Laurion, is in trouble with everyone because of his ability to perform magic tricks. His girl friend, Joan, played by Sherry McNally, helps him out until she is accidentally cut when she is the woman for his "sawing the woman in half" trick. Then even the best persuasion of Eddie, as played by Dan Harbick, and Betty, played by Carole Dybevik, can't change her decision that he is "gauche and unsophisticated."

Trouble really comes when Bob's little brother, Dickie, played by Bill Sheahan, decides to set a booby-trap for Joan, to help his brother get revenge. But he and his girl friend, Gwen, played by Jill Harbin, aren't around to face consequences when three PTA ladies, played by Sharon Knight, Helen McGlothlin and Helen Charon, accidentally walk into the trap. Adding to the predicament is the dying of a coat, borrowed by Bob, a bright yellow. Louella the maid, played by Gloria Caron, and Maurice Creeger plays the role of the school principal, who also is Joan's father.

The climax comes when a detective, played by Ed Busch, takes Bob to jail for stealing unusual rabbits reported lost by a lady from the zoo, played by Pat Vezina.

Bob's parents, portrayed by Bob Corson and Donna Larsen, despair of helping the boy when he escapes from jail through a magic trick.

Tickets may be obtained from students, or at the door Saturday night.

Cage Call At Trenary Brings Small Turnout

TRENNARY — Fourteen candidates, the smallest number to report for basketball in many years, are working out in daily drills under Coach George Hager for the opening season.

Five lettermen from last year's squad have graduated or dropped from school. Two other junior candidates, who were slated for varsity berths, have left school for employment.

Five returning lettermen will form the nucleus of the Central U. P. League team from Trenary. They are James Debelak, Jack Finlan, Donald Johnson, Donald Kallio and Morris Nance.

Other candidates are Roy Green, Kenneth Haapala, James Laine, Wilmer Latvala, Ronald Rama, Stanley Savola, Jack Orava, Raymond Tasker and Robert Debelak. The last two are newcomers to the squad and Hager regards Debelak as a promising prospect.

Trenary graduates last year were Carl Aho, Waino Kallio, Richard Rukhila and Clarence Taylor. Joseph Brant, junior letterman, is not back in school and Eugene Debelak and Carl Seefeld were out for practice but left school last week for employment.

Sports Roundup

It was Casey Stengel who lined up the automobile agency for Johnny Sain that enabled the Arkansas flinger to announce his retirement from baseball.

The Detroit pro football Lions are hurting because they traded away defense aces Don Doll, Dick Flanagan and Gus Cifelli. They were peddled because they couldn't get along with defense coach Buster Ramsey.

The Old Guard of the National Football League, George Halas and Steve Owen, should be re-dubbed the Rear Guard.

While on the subject, how about calling Lou Little's 60-minute Iron Lions of Columbia—after being flattened by Princeton, Yale, Army and Cornell—the Ironed Lions?

Frankie Albert, who got $25,000 per annum on a two-year contract for ditching the San Francisco 49ers, was on the roasting pan at Calgary and won't be back next year.

When Pappy Waldorf of California didn't answer the phone because of a faulty receiver after his Bears fumbled away a loss to Southern Cal, a war cracked, "Hey, Pappy, you fumbled the receiver." Just like they did at Northwestern, the other teams are catching on to Pappy's lack of offensive imagination, and Cal's in for gloomy days.

Johnny Olszewski of the Chicago Cards scoffs at Jeff Cravath's charge of big deals offered him to go to USC with a "Think I'd be doing this if I were offered a junior partnership?" Now the question is: Which one's fibbing?

And how can Bob Buckley, a Brooklyn boy, be playing varsity football for USC after he toured Australia with a troupe of rugby professionals last year?

Our educational leaders would blanch if the reason became public why Sid Gillman, one of the nation's finest football coaches, has been unable to advance into a top echelon job from the University of Cincinnati.

When are telecasters Mel Allen and Harry Wismer going to cut out the nonsensical gab during football games and let us concentrate on the action? And when are referees going to step off five-yard penalties, instead of four and six yards?

While totting up college coaches likely to go, jot down Tulane's Bear Wolf.

Master Frank Leahy confided last year that Johnny Lattner was no All-America back (albeit a mighty fine one). The real All-American in the Irish backfield is Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

The cost of transporting Miami's 110-piece band to New York for the Fordham game ($12,000) was more than the guarantee offered the Hurricanes on the gridiron.

Jack Scarbath, a '52 All-America at Maryland, wouldn't rate with current Terrapin quarterback Bernie Faloney.

The most undervalued end in the nation is LSU sophomore Joe Tumlinello.

Four Undefeated Prep Teams Fall From List

(By The Associated Press)

Four high school football teams fell to their first defeat of the season last weekend and Port Huron made the loudest crash of all.

The Hurons, who had won 26 straight games, were upset 7-0 by Grosse Pointe in one of the season's biggest surprises.

Also topping to their first setback were Mt. Morris, Edmore and Detroit St. Charles.

That left 28 teams in the state with perfect records.

25 Straight Wins

One of these is Algonac, which whipped St. Stephen, 19-0 for its 25th straight victory—longest streak in the state. Berrien Springs also has gone 25 games without a defeat but has tied once.

These figures were made available to the Associated Press by Dick Kishpaugh, Kalamazoo sports statistician.

When the Marinette Marines trimmed Menominee 19-7 Saturday afternoon it was no fluke victory. . . . New coach Marlon Batterman's Marines piled up 266 yards rushing and passing to only 57 for Menominee. . . . The leading ground gainer on the Menominee team picked up only 18 yards on nine carries. . . . Marinette's spark, Jon Hanson, broke an ankle bone in the fourth quarter after scoring two of the Marine TDs and setting up a third.

That game, by the way, may have been the last for Menominee's head coach Ken Radick. . . . Jim Ripley, sports editor of the Menominee Herald Leader, says Radick told his team before the game he wanted to retire from coaching but would like to remain on the faculty as an instructor. . . . In five years at Menominee Radick has a record of 30 wins, seven losses and one tie. . . . He has guided the Maroons to two Upper Peninsula football championships.

While Manistique was losing its chance for a second straight Great Lakes Conference championship at Negaunee last Saturday, the Soo Blue Devils were taking to the air against Ishpeming. . . . Soo left halfback Gary Tucker completed 11 of 15 passes for 124 yards and one touchdown. . . . Ishpeming made a fight of it all the way before losing 21-13. . . . They tied the score 7-7 early in the third period and trailed 14-13 early in the fourth.

Northern Michigan College of Education Wildcats had little trouble notching a 21-7 victory over Bethel of St. Paul, Minn., Saturday afternoon. . . . And they certainly shouldn't have had any trouble. . . . They tell us Bethel is a junior college with only freshmen and sophomores enrolled. . . . It isn't listed in the Blue Book of College Athletics. . . . Bethel's air game against Northern was futile to say the least. . . . Bethel backs threw 11 passes and failed to make a completion.

Ironwood Red Devils, rated the No. 1 Class B team in the state by the Detroit Free Press will lose 14 senior lettermen this year. . . . Coach Merts Mortorelli recently awarded 24 major varsity and 10 minor varsity letters to his squad members. . . . It was the first time that minor awards were issued.

Bob MacDonald and Herb Carlson, former Newberry High School athletes, are enjoying successful college grid seasons. . . . MacDonald is a wingback on the Albion team and is one of the leaders in the state college scoring race. . . . Carlson, a tailback for Newberry's undefeated Indians a few years back, is a center on the Washington State University squad at Pullman, Wash.

Spartans Have Scoring Edge

By JOHN F. MAYHEW
ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines faced a man-sized problem today.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's football team which has given up 16 points on the average in four Big Ten games while scoring only 9, must get ready for the Michigan State Spartans, who have averaged 23 and held opponents to about 9.

Statistics pointed to an MSC margin of about three touchdowns to one.

Oosterbaan, whose team has scored only 37 points in the Big Ten this season, began working on defense for MSC first.

The MSC plays were run against the varsity at half speed to acquaint the Wolverines with the favorite Spartan maneuvers.

End play, which has not been Michigan's strongest point this season, was also emphasized. MSC, whose speed and wide plays is comparable to Illinois, is expected to be troublesome there.

Merchants Defeat Garden Bay 62-61

MANISTIQUE—The Manistique Merchants opened the 1953-54 independent basketball season with a 62-61 victory over Garden Bay Sunday night.

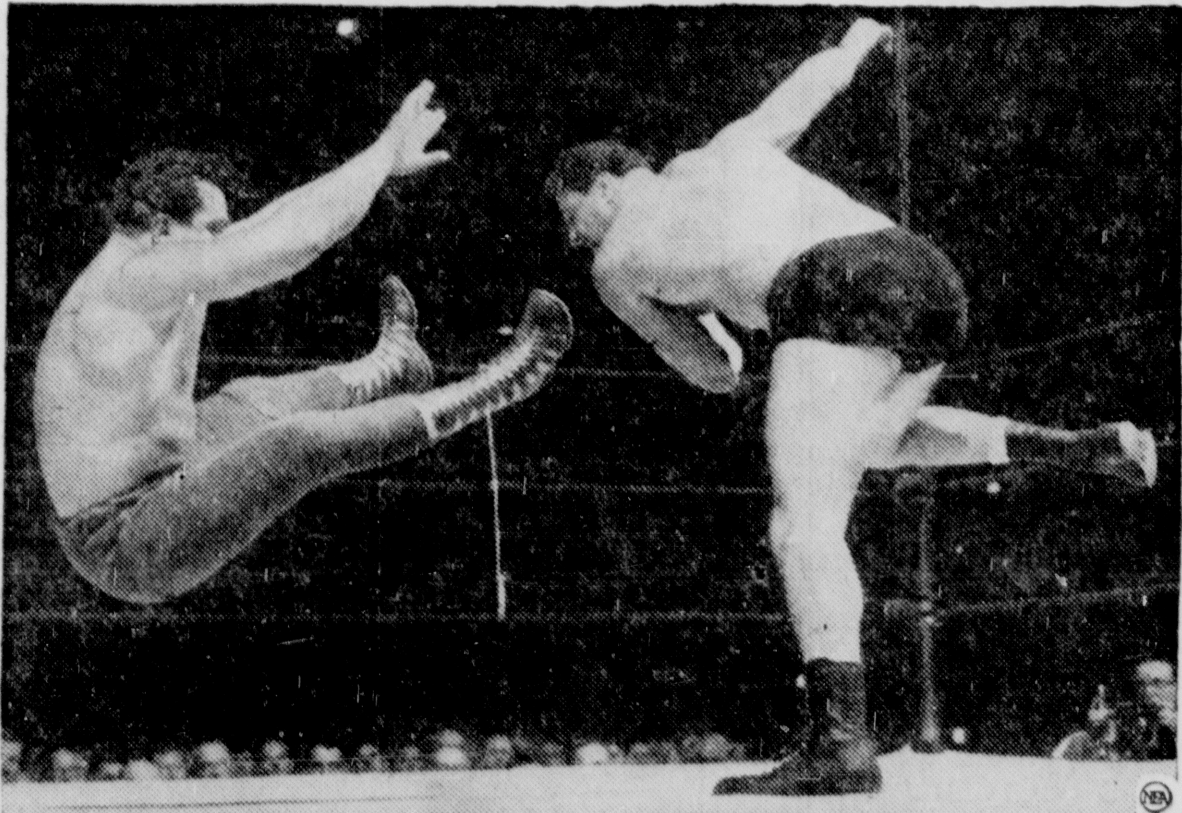

Wally Moran fed 38 points through the nets for the losers while George Hough paced the Merchants with 31.

Trailing 34-26 at the half, the Merchants rallied to knot the score at 44-44 at the end of the third quarter and went on to cop the one-point decision.

The team will play a return game Wednesday night at 8 in the Old Gym. No admission will be charged.

The famed Harlem Globetrotters will be in Manistique on Sunday, Nov. 29, to meet the Merchants. An effort is being made to collect the members of last year's Manistique High School Class B cage champs for an appearance at that game.

Wells Is Out With Pneumonia

By ROBERT E. VOGES
EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's pony backfield, which has worked as a unit for the past two football seasons, was broken up by illness today.

Billy Wells, hard-hitting little right half from Menominee, was in the college hospital with lobar pneumonia.

Dr. James Feurig, team physician, said Wells was resting comfortably and was in no danger. He will not be available for the Michigan game, however, and may be out for the rest of the season.

Bert Zagers, a junior from Cadillac, will work with the first string in place of Wells. Travis Buggs, a sophomore from East Chicago, Ind., moves up as second man at the position.

Also lost for the Michigan game are tackle Randy Schreengost and end Carl Diener.

Schreengost reinjured his right knee and will have to undergo an operation for a loose cartilage. He will be out for the rest of the season.

Diener fractured his top left rib against Ohio State and also may be missing for the rest of the season.

Name Detroit Bowler Of Year

DETROIT (AP)—Don Carter, a 27-year-old Detroit bowler who found baseball too rigorous a profession, today was acclaimed "bowler of the year" for 1953.

In the 11th annual poll of the National Bowling Writers' Association, Carter received 597 points. He topped Buzz Fazio, also of Detroit, who had 486, and Frank Santore of Long Island City, N. Y., who had 379.

Carter won the All-Star tournament at Chicago, averaging 265.47 for the 64-game round-robin. This is emblematic of the world's match game bowling championship.

In the middle 1940s, Carter was signed by the Philadelphia A's, who fanned him to their Moline, Ill., baseball club.

Carter played shortstop every other day and pitched every fourth day with Moline. He lost 35 pounds and quit.

As a bowler, this past year he helped the Pfeiffer team retain its five-man championship in the American Bowling Congress. He also teamed with Fred Bujack for second place in the ABC doubles and was 14th in all-events.

Jed Black Decisions Former Ring Champion

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Jed Black, like his former Michigan State College stablemate, Chuck Davey, now holds a boxing victory over Ike Williams, former lightweight champ now attempting a comeback as a welter.

Black, fighting out of Janesville, Wis., left-hooked his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Williams, of Trenton, N. J., Monday night.

Black's victory was his 23rd straight as a pro, but was his first at 10 rounds. He weighed 142 and Williams 151.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The official word is due today whether Marty Marion is to manage the Baltimore Orioles next year and the conjecture is that the answer will be no.

Marion and Art Ehlers, Orioles general manager who is making the decision, talked four hours behind closed doors Monday.

Ehlers said "Marty's position will be determined in the next 24 hours."

Marion made it clear, "I want to manage the club."

Marion also said he had refused to haggle over the contract he had with the St. Louis Browns and which runs through next year.

The contract also might have tipped what is in the wind. Ehlers and Marion telephoned William Harridge, American League president, for his opinion on what happens if a manager with a contract is released and takes another job in baseball.

Ehlers maintained that the first club has to make up only the difference between its contract and the second salary. Marion's contract is for a reported total of $40,000.

Harridge refused to reveal what he had said to Marion and Ehlers, but it is believed he backed up Ehlers' interpretation.

The Orioles already are committed to paying Rogers Hornsby for another year on a contract he had with the Browns. Marion succeeded Hornsby in June of 1952.

Supreme Court Will Keep Hands Off Pro Baseball

No action seemed likely any time soon.

Hogan Again Named Golfer Of The Year

DETROIT (AP)—The PGA's "golfer of the year" award has been in existence for six years—and Ben Hogan has been awarded the title four times.

The Little Texas was honored Monday night at the 37th annual dinner of the PGA but he was unable to attend because of previous commitments.

Meanwhile, PGA officials came up with a tournament that is unique because of the fact that Hogan probably won't be able to enter.

The tourney is a 72-hole medal play event. It is to be staged late next September with the site still to be determined.

Only those golfers who have taken part in a certain percentage of tournaments will be eligible. Hogan may be out since he limits himself to only a few select tournaments each year.

The West Virginia football team has nine married men on its roster.

Monday said that baseball, as a sport, is not subject to the federal antitrust laws. The court thus did not consider legality of the reserve clause, under which the services of baseball players are in the absolute control of the club holding them under contract.

Rep. Keating R-N.Y., chairman of the House judiciary subcommittee on monopoly, said his group will consider "with an open mind" any legislation proposed about baseball.

The Supreme Court ruling could foreshadow defeat for the government's antitrust action against the National Football League. The government argued that the league's restrictions on radio and television coverage of games is in violation of the antitrust laws.

But if pro football is held to be outside the province of the antitrust laws, it doesn't matter whether it violates those laws.

New Football Coach At Colorado College

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—Vigil Y. (Joe) Lindahl, 34, is new head football coach at Colorado State College. He was approved Monday night by the college board of trustees.

Lindahl, a former Little All-America end and line coach here the past year, will succeed John W. Hancock who has retired to become athletic director and track and wrestling coach.

Little Rio Grande College Slates Tough Cage Season

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (P)—A 25-game basketball schedule that takes a hill-country Ohio college team into Madison Square Garden should prove whether Clarence (Bevo) Francis is as great as his last year's performances indicate or just another big man against little opposition.

The schedule is the toughest ever faced by little Rio Grande college in the southern Ohio hills. Last season the fabulous six-foot, nine-inch Francis was unstoppable. As a freshman, he rolled up 1,954 points for an average of 50.1 per game as Rio Grande knocked over 39 opponents.

In one game against Ashland Junior College of Kentucky he scored 116 points. That gave Bevo the record for most points scored by a small college player. But the NCAA snatched the records away because of opposition his critics called "pushover."

Face Big Names
This season junior colleges, business schools and service teams are eliminated from the schedule, which lists games against always-powerful North Carolina State, Villanova, Miami, Wake Forest, Butler and Creighton.

Rio Grande, boasting a 43 per cent enrollment increase over last year's 94 full-time students, opens its season Nov. 26 at Buffalo, N. Y., against Buffalo State Institute. A week later the Redmen help open the Madison Square Garden season against Adelphi, then on the next two nights meet Villanova at Philadelphia and Providence at Boston.

"We're not going to get pushed around," coach Newt Oliver said in an interview this week. "But things don't look too good. The kids think they're pretty tough and they need to get blasted real good."

Team Over-Confident

Bevo is anxious to tie into the bigger teams, but admitted the Rio squad might be a little over-confident.

"A fellow hates to run his own team down," the 21-year-old marksman said, "but we just don't seem to have enough steam and drive in practice. I guess you never expect to lose games, but everyone will be gunning for us and that means we'll just have to try a little harder."

Rio's starting five all are back this year, including Wayne Wiseman, senior guard who led the nation last year in field goal percentage with a 62.9 accuracy average.

Oliver's eight front-line players—despite the giant Francis—will average only a little over 6-1 in height.

Midwest Grid Notes

CHICAGO (P)—Midwest football briefs.

Ohio State—Declaring mistakes made Saturday in losing to Michigan State were "mine, not the boys," coach Woody Hayes has turned determinedly to preparing his squad for Purdue.

Wisconsin—Halfback and co-captain Roger Dornburg is returning to duty after a several weeks' lay-off because of a knee injury.

Marquette—Fullback Bob Gorman will miss the Holy Cross game because of a chest injury. Ed Mixan will take over.

Illinois—Fullback Stan Wallace, who missed the Michigan game because of an injured knee, is ready for action against Wisconsin.

Northwestern—Coach Bob Voight, disappointed with his squad's showing against Wisconsin, indicates there may be a shaking up this week.

Minnesota—Fullback Mel Holme has a bruised hip but apparently will be ready for Iowa.

Purdue—Coach Stu Holcomb, concerned about an attack that has failed to produce a point in the last two games, is trying to spice the Boilermaker offense.

Iowa—Captain Andy Houg is reported ready to take over his guard position after a two-week absence because of a back injury.

Notre Dame—Ray Lemek, sophomore left guard who suffered a slight concussion in the Penn game, has recovered and will practice this week.

Michigan State—Halfback Billy Wells has been stricken with pneumonia and will miss the Michigan game. Tackle Randy Schreengost has been sidelined for the season because of a bad knee. A fractured rib also will keep end Carl Diener out of the Wolverine contest.

Michigan—The Wolverines didn't suffer any serious injuries in losing to Illinois.

Earlier Marketing Of Potatoes Recommended

EAST LANSING — Michigan's potato growers should market a much larger part of their 1953 crop earlier in the season than usual.

That's the suggestion from Michigan State College agricultural economists. They say past experience indicates early marketing is advisable.

The economists point to the large crop of 299 million bushels this year in the 29 late potato states—6 per cent more than last year. And late selling, they advise, has usually been profitable only in years of small crops.

Another factor should encourage Michigan growers and shippers to head for an early season market: The economists report that shippers in states such as Maine and Idaho have a tendency to hold back in early season sales.

On the other hand, say the economists, I. early season shipments from these states are more than proportionately heavier than last year, it may be profitable to store a large part of the Michigan crop for a limited time.

That means it's especially important to check market news reports frequently, emphasize the economists.

Eye Candidates For All-America

ST. LOUIS (P)—The Associated Press All-America nominators in the Missouri Valley Conference area have been particularly intent on five players, four of them linemen.

Unanimous choices of the seven-man group are Buddy Gillioz of Houston and Dale Meinert of Oklahoma A & M, tackles; Tom Miner of Tulsa, end; Denny McCotter of Detroit, guard, and Detroit quarterback Dave Kline.

In three seasons the 5-foot-11, 210 McCotter has excelled at quarterback, fullback and guard. He was the Titans' leading passer as a sophomore.

Miner has been an unanimous All-Valley selection at end.

In seven games Kline this season has tossed 105 passes, completed 40 and netted 620 yards. All three figures are tops in the valley, as are the 10 touchdowns accounted for by his passes.

Adding 131 yards rushing, the 170-pound, 5-10 senior is No. 1 in total offense as well.

Several Blasting FBs On College Gridirons

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (P)—The days of the blasting fullback of the Bronco Nagurski school are not gone.

Penn's Joe Varratis and Notre Dame's Neil Worden are being compared with Minnesota's great Bronc since they were turned loose on each other in the 28-20 Irish victory over the Quakers Saturday.

Varratis crashed what had been considered the almost impenetrable middle of Notre Dame's line for 85 yards and a touchdown.

Worden, the workhorse of the Irish backfield, is being called less powerful than the Bronc and slower than former South Bender Joe Savoldi but comparable to both.

Outstanding fullbacks are few this year but there are a few others—Wisconsin's Alan Ameche, West Virginia's Tom Allman, Texas' Douglas Cameron and Georgia Tech's Glenn Turner.

Worden was a human battering ram as he led a vicious ground game in Notre Dame's 27-14 victory over Georgia Tech that ended a 31-game unbeaten string. He drove 101 yards in 20 carries, including a touchdown. He set up the final score with a 19-yard run on a lateral from Johnny Lattnier. Ameche rates as one of the nation's best linebacksers as well as a top runner. He cut inside and out for 115 yards and a touchdown, knocked down two passes and tackled a punt receiver as the first man downfield in Wisconsin's 20-0 victory over Penn State.

Gavilan's Objection To Ref Turned Down

CHICAGO (P)—Bill Doty, despite the protests of the Kid Gavilan camp, remains on the list of eligible referees for the Gavilan-Johnny Bratton welterweight title fight in Chicago Stadium Friday.

Angel Lopez, Gavilan's manager, asked the Illinois Athletic Commission Monday to blacklist Doty, who refereed a Stadium bout between the two fighters in 1951 and voted for Bratton.

The bout, an overweight non-title affair, ended in a draw as one of the judges voted for Gavilan and the other called it a standoff. Gavilan subsequently charged Bratton, a Chicago boy, got a "home town decision."

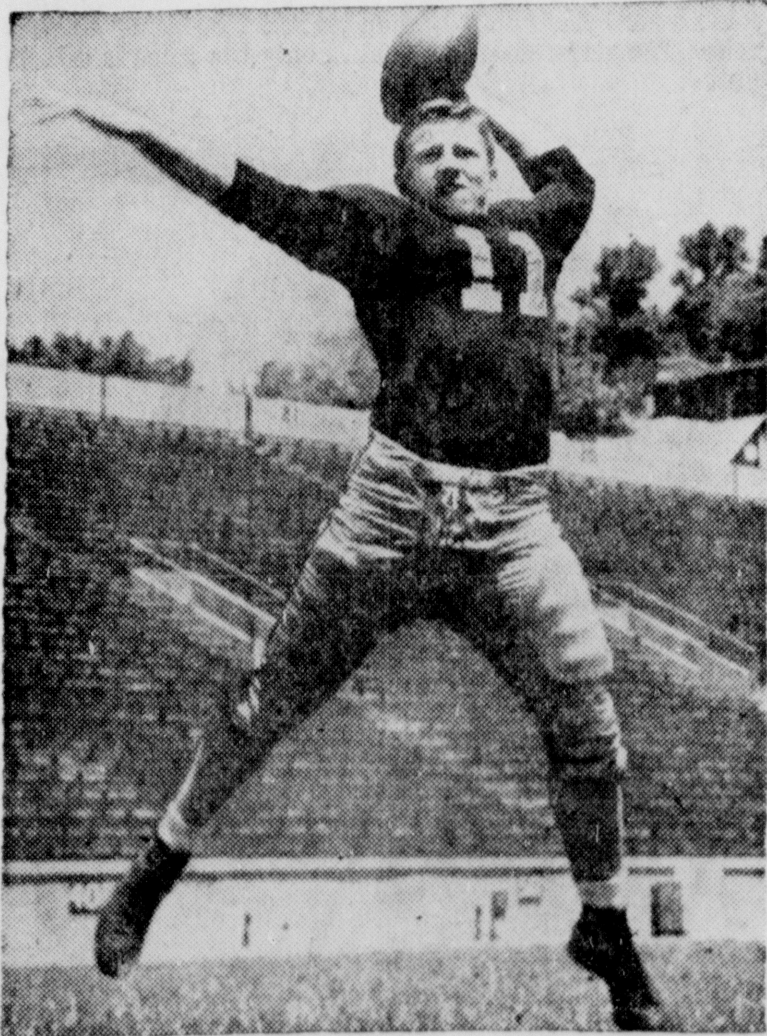

IAC chairman Livingston Osborne said, "No one can dictate to the commission."

Use That Deer, Hide And All

A deer does have some more or less inedible parts—the hide, hoofs, and antlers. So assuming that the hunter does get a deer he has the makings for articles for home, camp, himself or gifts.

The tanned hide can furnish gloves and jackets. Cut into things buckskin makes ideal material for braiding such things as a leash for walking the pooch or belts.

A gun case of deerskin is not too difficult a project for the successful hunter. Using an old canvas case of the type that will fit the gun to be protected and some pattern making help from the distaff side of the hunter's family should soon bring the material to the point where it is ready for sewing.

Sewing the case is not difficult. Buckskin strips cut about one-quarter inch wide and stretched to slightly less width, make good material for sewing and give the case a pleasing appearance. Use a small, thin, sharp knife blade to make the holes for sewing with the buckskin. Use the two-thread method of sewing, pulling two buckskin strips through each hole, one from each side of the material.

Billfolds, handbags, coin purses, key cases, moccasins, mittens and even caps or hats are additional tanned buckskin possibilities.

The antlers make ideal handle material for knives, hunting, kitchen or even for letter openers. Saw off the piece of antler that suits the purpose in mind. Drill a hole in the bit of antler slightly larger than the metal part of the knife that will be inserted in the hole, fill the hole with powdered sulphur, heat the metal and force it into the hole and let it cool.

Antlers are one of the traditional materials for gun racks. They have also been made to serve as legs for footstools, arms for desk lamps, the working parts of boot jacks, holders for fishing rods for drape rods over windows and drape holdbacks at the sides of windows.

Deer legs—feet and ankles—that is, have possibilities as gun rack material and even footstool legs, but that is a taxidermist's project.

Don't File Points On Military Shells, Hunters Are Warned

Taking note of the many deer rifles of military calibers in use and the plethora of military ammunition available, Ray S. Holmes, Ammunition Research and Development Manager for Western Winchester, has come up with a warning against filing the points off fully-jacketed military cartridges.

He says some of these cartridges have no jacket covering the base of the bullet. When a firing pin has been down on such a bullet, it is very likely that the metal jacket may be left in the barrel after the lead core has been blown out.

"If this does happen and the shooter isn't aware of the obstruction," said Mr. Holmes, "the rifle may burst when the next shot is fired. It's better to use factory-loaded ammunition designed not only for maximum safety, but also for the greatest hunting efficiency."

Rent Paid Third Time In 283 Years

ABBOTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—When the Lutheran congregation of this central Pennsylvania hamlet pays its rent for the year it will be only the third time in 283 years the rental has been collected.

The rent will go to a descendant of John Abbot, founder of the community who sold the church two lots. The selling price was five shillings and the annual payment of one pepper corn which is a dried berry of the black pepper.

The 1953 payment will be made as part of the 200th anniversary of the founding of the town.

Price Supports:

Benson, Mitchell Present Views On Farm Economics

By SECRETARY BENSON

If there were a satisfactory way to control cattle production, a direct price support program would be worth considering, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson said today in an article written exclusively for a current magazine.

The cattlemen, organized by the National Farmers Union, who recently came to Washington to ask that cattle prices be supported at not less than 90 percent of parity "were invited to submit a plan for direct support," Secretary Benson said. "After deliberating they came up with their original proposal. There was no plan, no suggested means of carrying out their proposal. These men, whose sincerity I do not question, simply ran up against the same dead end in logical reasoning that numerous farm experts here and abroad have encountered."

In the article the Secretary of Agriculture stated that the possibility of supporting livestock prices through a direct program has been tried in other countries, where it had to be abandoned because it proved impractical. "To this day no one has come up with a workable means of controlling cattle production," Benson said.

Support Demand Overrated
Secretary Benson said he felt the demand for direct price supports among cattlemen was "less widespread than some incidents would indicate."

"I asked 23 major farm and livestock industry groups for their advice. Eighteen said they opposed supporting prices, four favored doing it and one expressed no opinion," Benson said. "These groups included nearly all the regional and nationwide ranching, feeding, processing and distributing organizations."

Secretary Benson also revealed that the mail he received after the cattlemen's caravan left Washington was 25 to 1 in opposition to cattle price supports.

Defends Current Program
The Department of Agriculture's current indirect support program on cattle is getting results and "proving a definite stimulant to market prices," Benson said.

The government's six point program for cattlemen, as outlined by Benson, includes:

1. The purchase of the equivalent of 750,000 head of cattle for sale through foreign outlets, the school lunch program and into institutions.
2. Emergency credit loans in drought areas.
3. Providing low-cost feed to cattlemen. So far, 922,000 tons have been allocated and the price cut 50 percent.
4. The railroads have agreed to reduce cattle and feed freight rates to drought areas.
5. $10 million has been taken from the President's emergency funds to finance the distribution of hay in drought regions.
6. Every available channel of information is being used to promote the use of beef. Beef consumption will be up 30 percent this year over 1952, and per capita consumption is about to reach a record 75 pounds.

Direct Support Drawbacks
Secretary Benson cited these serious drawbacks to a government direct price support program for cattle:

First: Price differentials would have to be established for all the various grades of cattle to arrive at an average reflecting 90 percent of parity. Trained manpower to grade at the 3,000 large and small cattle markets would be impossible to find.

Second: A seasonal schedule of prices for all the various grades would have to be set because of the nature of cattle production cycles. This might make it necessary to fall back on embargoes and shipping certificates as it was when the government tried supporting hog prices 10 years ago.

Third: If farmers believed 90 percent price supports were on the books for good they would hold back cattle for breeding purposes which would in the end aggravate the problem through oversupply. On the other hand, they might flood the market with cattle on every occasion when it appeared the support was on its way out.

Secretary Benson warned against a possible glut of beef. "I doubt if the farmer and the general public would stand for it. They nearly rebelled when we destroyed potatoes, and the memory of the slaughter of little pigs in New Deal days makes many people wince after two decades," Benson said.

"I believe that the people who provide our food would agree that the purpose of all farm production is consumption and that production merely for the sake of a government subsidy is undesirable," the Secretary said.

Returns To Stagecoach

SOUTH WOODSTOCK, Vt. (AP)—Some oldsters make the news with plane flights. Mrs. Fred Parry, 93, reversed the trend. She took a spin in a 150 year old stagecoach here.

She declined an inside seat and skipped spryly up the ladder to view the scenery from the stagecoach top.

By CLYDE C. MITCHELL

Farm policy developed over the last 20 years is essentially sound, provides a good base for future national farm programs and is headed in the right direction.

That's the belief of C. Clyde Mitchell, an outspoken critic of those who advocate a return to the "free market" for agriculture. In a Capper's Farmer article, Mitchell, chairman of the department of economics at the University of Nebraska, sets forth his reasons why we should have "government in agriculture."

The farm price slump of the early 1920's and the depression of the 1930's made us realize that individual farmers can't exert control over farm prices the way industries do theirs, reminds the economist.

Farm Competition
"During the '30's farm leaders and congress forged the realistic laws that help agriculture maintain its place in our economy."

"Despite all the talk about free enterprise, much of the non-agricultural economy is not free. For that reason, agriculture demands, and receives, help from government so that it can compete with industry and labor."

"Certainly no one is seriously proposing that business and industry abolish the subsidies hidden in trademarks, patents, tariffs, labor unions, trade associations, price-fixing agreements, or tax write-offs," Mitchell declares.

"And," he adds, "I don't think anyone is consciously advocating that agriculture give up the benefits from farm programs worked out during the past 20 years."

Mitchell suggests that our farm policy does need modernization, but he says it's headed in the right direction. It's admittedly a complicated collection of government programs. It has to be to meet the problems of 5½ million who produce and the 160 million who consume farm products.

Surpluses 'Fortunate'
If you have kept an eye on farm issues, you know the big argument today is over prices. Farm organizations are fighting each other over the merits and demerits of high fixed supports, flexible supports and two-price systems.

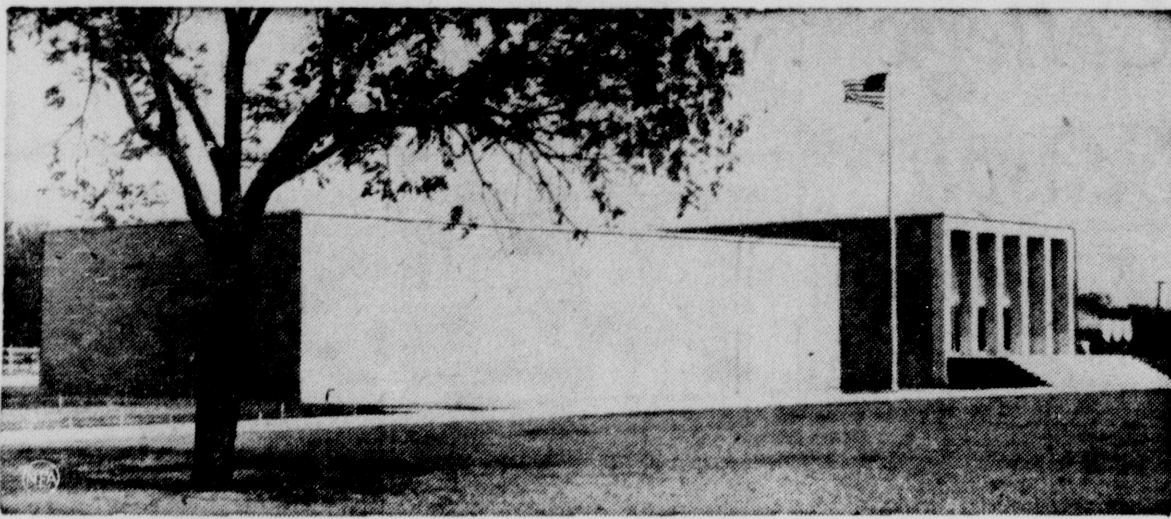

But the fact is, states the economist, the big problem facing farmers today is that "of increasing consumption to make good use of surplus farm products."

It is Mitchell's contention that everyone worries too much about storable surpluses. There is no reason to believe that the next 20 years will be any less a period of continual crisis than the last 20 when surpluses proved fortunate. The management of stored foodstuffs costs little compared to the security gained, he says.

"During the years of the build-up we should make wider use of school lunches, in-plant feeding for industry, food distribution schemes for low-income families, and expand educational programs to increase consumption of the higher-quality food which are largely perishables."

Foreign consumers should also be a target of this campaign, Mitchell believes. Improvement of the diet of people in the free world is a long-range attack on forces that will continue to threaten America whether or not Soviet imperialism is checked. The power of food was shown in President Eisenhower's use of it in Germany.

Aid to Farmers
If we can increase consumption, then any of the several price or income support policies will work fairly well, continues "the economist. If the surplus problem isn't solved, no policy will suit both

'HOME' FOR EISENHOWER MEMENTOS — Nearing completion in Abilene, Kan., President Eisenhower's home town, is the museum that will house the Chief Executive's war trophies and mementoes, valued at a million dollars. The structure is being built by the Eisenhower

Foundation, which expects to open it to the public in 1954. On June 4, 1952, the President laid the cornerstone for the museum and later in the day opened his campaign for Republican presidential nomination.

Marrying Justices On Way Out

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP)—An old institution, the marrying police justice, is one step further out of the official door and almost completely a matter of history. The city and three men holding the office have consented to a judgment which eliminates the office entirely.

A state law passed this year listed persons authorized to perform marriages. Police justices were not included. The judgment resulted from a suit instituted by the state after the new law was passed and asked the courts to declare the office illegal.

Vegetarian Cat Found In Carolina

EAU CLAIRE, S. C. (AP)—There is a vegetarian cat here with a yen for ripe, red tomatoes and juicy cantaloupes. The tabby is a lean specimen of the alley variety, and won't touch table scraps of ham, chicken and beef.

Cooked butter beans, fresh green peppers, and popcorn are other diet favorites for the cat.

farmers and taxpayers. "Farm price supports haven't always worked perfectly," admits Mitchell. "But haven't they worked to increase the market power of farmers? Price supports with crop loans and associated production restrictions, have placed farmers on more even terms with America's industrial economy."

Taking a look down the road ahead, instead of back 20 years, Mitchell suggests that for both economic and political reasons America probably will have to learn to make price supports work and work better.

"Furthermore, the support programs should be broadened because some foods not now supported are as important as those which are," Mitchell says. "Large security stocks of storable commodities must be managed in a sensible manner."

"Too, production controls must be improved, and maximum local participation is necessary. For a few commodities, drastic production adjustments will undoubtedly be made, but the aim of adjustment should always be toward more and better food for more people."

Lower Prices For Eggs Seen

EAST LANSING — Michigan State College agricultural economists figure that egg prices will be about 6 cents a dozen less in 1954 than this year.

Their figures are based on an estimated 2 per cent more layers than in 1953 and a continuing increase in rate of lay.

Since much of the increase in potential new layers was hatched late, the economists think the seasonal decline in egg prices will not start until about the second week of December of this year. Prices are expected to remain about what they are now until that time.

The economists also believe that 1954 will be a good time for farmers to expand their laying flocks. Their ideas are based on these things. There will be some reduction in chicks bought for laying flock replacement in 1954 because lower prices are expected in the first five months of next year. That means that 1955 prices will be higher, than 1954.

The M. S. C. men predict that broiler prices will average about the same in 1954 as this year.

Bellies Of Crabs Clue To Minerals

VANCOUVER (AP)—A black substance on the bellies of crabs caught at the mouth of the Naam River in northern British Columbia may be a clue to a mineral treasure.

Fishermen found the crabs almost unsaleable because of the black coating and sent samples to the Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station here to see if anything could be done to make the crabs more presentable on fish store counters.

Dr. D. R. Idler and R. A. MacLeod scraped the offending substance off and discovered it was almost 24 per cent manganese, one of the world's most prized minerals used in making steel and chemicals.

Watch Out For 1954 Warn The Great Prophecies

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astounding 64 page book analyzing the great world prophecies covering these times. It shows that four of the greatest prophecies could not come true until the present time. But now they can, and world-shaking events are due. He believes everyone should prepare at once for the fearful crisis. Thus, many people will avoid catastrophe.

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

These strange methods were found in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

The 64 page book he is now offering free to the public offers guidance for those who wisely wish to prepare themselves and their affairs for the great crisis ahead. It gives details of what to anticipate, and when. Those who do pull through will have little to fear, because a glorious era will follow. Meantime, it says, "Beware of These Days!"

The book formerly sold for a dollar, but as long as the present supply last, it is offered free to readers of this notice. This liberal offer is made because he expects that many readers will later become interested in the entire system of mind power he learned in the Far East and which is now ready to be disclosed to the western world.

For your free copy of the astonishing prophecies covering these momentous times, as revealed in this 64 page book, address the Institute of Mentalphysics 214 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. H-487, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard or in an envelope will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.
